

Labor Department Employees Told To Go On Welfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Department employees are being told to think about going on welfare, buy cheaper food and remember the Salvation Army if Congress fails to dislodge money for next week's paychecks.

A memo to employees on how to cope with next week's looming pay cut suggests looking for ways to "legally delay or temporarily reduce payments to creditors ... reduce expenses (and) make essential purchases in ways that delay the actual payment date."

The departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare have run out of operating money because their appropriations for the fiscal year are stalled between the House and Senate in a dispute over when federal money will be used for abortions.

Last year, 300,000 abortions — most of them for poor women — were financed through the Medicaid program at a cost of about $50 million.

Paychecks next week for the 240,000 employees of the two departments will cover only one week instead of the usual two. And, until Congress acts, there won't be any more pay envelopes, although salaries could be paid retroactively.

An HEW official, asked if a similar memo was being sent to his department's employees, said he didn't know of any but suggested there might be some good in the financial crunch.

"If this goes on long enough, people in this department might find out what it's like to fill out all those forms for welfare and do the paperwork to get their kids into free lunch programs," he said.

The Labor Department memo, prepared in an assistant secretary's office for distribution throughout the department, was given to The Associated Press by an upset employee.

A second Labor Department memo, to supervisors, advises that employees wanting time off to get financial help should generally be expected to work full time.

HEW Secretary Joseph Califano Jr. told congressional leaders, meanwhile, he feels it is "grossly unfair to hold the vulnerable people of our nation and thousands of federal and state employees hostage" in the abortion dispute.

In letters to Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, House Speaker Thomas O'Neill and several committee chairmen, Califano said if Congress cannot approve the appropriations bill by Thursday, a resolution should be passed to provide temporary funds.

He said if Congress does not act by then, benefits will be cut off for thousands of poor people, children, the sick, aged and disabled.

The secretary said New York will be unable to pay its welfare workers as of today, Texas is laying off 612 employees today and Idaho is out of money for its nutritional aid and community services for the aging.

Other threatened programs help finance state health agencies, federal aid to schools in areas with large government installations, education for the handicapped and social services for the aged.

Subdivisions' Fates To Be Decided

The fate of two subdivisions, Court Villa and Elm Grove, will be considered in a meeting of the Pickaway County Regional Planning Commission 8 a.m. Thursday in the County Commissioners' office.

The commissioners have asked the planning commission to make a recommendation as to what should be done with Court Villa Subdivision located near the Village of Meade in Pickaway Township.

The subdivision was approved in the mid-1960's and a bond was given to the county commissioners for the construction of a road. The developer never constructed the road but two of the lots in the subdivision were sold.

According to Greg Bigam, chairman of the commission, most developers build their own road, posting a bond as insurance so that the county does not get stuck with the job.

In this case the developers, Guy and Katherine Courtwright, want the county to build the road with the bond money which has since become inadequate.

According to Priscilla Steele of Barrett, Cargo, Withers and Associates of Chillicothe, and consultant for the commission, the developer has threatened to go to court if the county makes him build the road.

County prosecutor James Kingsley has told the commissioners that the property owners could sue the county if the county does not build the road.

According to Kingsley, there are four choices available to the county:

(1) The county can make the developer build the road.

(2) The county can build the road and assess the cost to the property owners.

(3) The county can build the road and assume the cost itself.

(4) The planning commission could grant a variance to permit a gravel access road.

In the latter case, Kingsley said it is recommended that the plat be vacated, which he thinks is the least acceptable alternative.

A vacation would leave landlocked lots. Owners of the lots would have to obtain an easement over adjoining land to construct an access out to the road.

The county planning commission does not approve building the road as it would set a precedent permitting the county to build an access road out of gravel which is in violation of county subdivision regulations.

In addition, the planning commission will review a proposed subdivision located just west of Duvall in Harrison Twp. The parcel of land has six existing houses on it which have been rented for years. The developers wish to sell the buildings as homes, but

Urban Development Bill Inked By Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today signed a bill providing $14.7 billion for housing the needy and revitalizing the cities, calling it "a giant step forward" in improving living conditions for low-income, elderly and handicapped families.

The measure includes $1.2 billion to help the families pay their rent.

Recalling his visit last week to the South Bronx slums in New York, Carter said he saw living conditions that are "a disgrace to our great country — enough to shake our confidence in the structure that we've evolved."

While there are no instant solutions to such housing problems, the President said, "this bill takes a giant step forward."

Sitting at a small brown table in the White House Rose Garden, Carter put his signature on the measure with two green pens, then shook hands with members of Congress attending the ceremony.

"In general, this is a very excellent piece of legislation," Carter told them. But he said one part of it, removing restraints on building homes in flood plains, caused him concern.

The President said he would determine whether to reinstate the restraints with corrective legislation next year or try to deal with the matter administratively.

The signing ceremony followed Carter's weekly breakfast with congressional leaders.

After the ceremony, Carter arranged to meet for the third time in two days with Lt. Gen. Olusegun Obasanjo, the Nigerian chief of state. The President conferred with him Tuesday and honored him at a White House dinner Tuesday night.

The housing and community development bill, product of a two-month conference between the House and Senate, extends the block grant program for revitalizing cities for three years and funds it with $10.9 billion, a $2.4 billion increase.

The administration says the rent subsidies for the needy plus the financial aid to hardpressed cities will help an additional 345,000 families find housing at rents they can afford.

At the same time, the White House says, the bill will provide a half million

Jalisco Prison Warden Grants Rebel Demands

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — The warden of Jalisco state prison says he will grant the demands of rebel convicts reported to have executed 15 trustees, and informed sources said the violence had subsided. But the prisoners remained in control of the cellblocks today.

Officials said it was "not yet time" to send guards back among the rebels who took over the cellblocks Monday morning.

The inmates who officials said murdered the trustees for revenge demanded better food, better medical service, improved living conditions, more jobs and an end to the trusty system.

"We are going to give them what they are asking," said Warden Pedro Parra after he entered the cellblocks Tuesday with an unarmed guard and talked with the leaders of the rebellion for several minutes.

But Parra postponed plans to send guards back into the cellblocks Tuesday night.

"We are trying to avoid any risk to their lives. It is not yet time to send them in," said Deputy Warden Jose Luis Almanzor.

"We have asked for additional forces to increase security, but nothing has been done," the warden said. He said usually about two dozen guards are on duty at one time.

Police armed with automatic weapons and grenade launchers ringed the fortress-like penitentiary. Prison officials had control of the administrative wing in front.

About 2,000 inmates were reported roaming freely in the cellblocks, but only 400 rebels were said to have signed a statement listing the demands.

The statement said they killed the trustees because they abused, beat and threatened other prisoners. The executions were "not a crime but justice," the statement said.

Slain one by one, the trustees were so-called "coordinators" who helped the administration operate the prison and also sold such privileges as seats in a prison restaurant and private cells.

U.S. consular officials said none of the 10 American inmates reported in the prison was injured. The Americans were jailed on smuggling or narcotics charges.

jobs in construction and related industries where unemployment rates are the highest.

Carter aides also expect the measure to spur private investment in distressed urban areas, again where the need is the greatest.

In a new twist, the bill provides two formulas for allocating the money, enabling older, more distressed cities to get significantly greater assistance.

Older cities in the Northeast will benefit from the new, alternative allocation formula, but other regions are not expected to be harmed by it.

In another presidential action, Carter said Tuesday he plans to merge the U.S. Information Agency and the bureau that handles cultural exchanges into one Agency for International Communication. He pledged it would not act covertly or spread propaganda.

The President's proposals were in a message to Congress outlining the second of his plans for government reorganization. At the same time, Carter promised to keep the USIA's voice of America independent and objective.

3-Man Military Councils Takes Control Of Yemen

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Western diplomats in North Yemen's capital predicted today that the assassination of President Ibrahim al-Hamdi would not result in any significant change in the policy of the Yemeni government, including its ties with Saudi Arabia and the United States.

The diplomats, reached by telephone, said the three-man military council Radio San'a announced Tuesday had taken control of the government were all three members of the presidential council which al-Hamdi had headed since he took over in a bloodless coup in 1974.

The broadcast by the Yemenian government radio said the council now was headed by the commander in chief of the army, Maj. Ahmed Hussein al-Ghamshi, one of al-Hamdi's closest associates.

The sources said San'a, the Yemeni capital, was calm and no extra security precautions were evident. Their reports contradicted a dispatch from the official Iraqi news agency which said angry crowds filled the streets demanding revenge for the killings.

Radio San'a reported that al-Hamdi and his brother, Col. Abdullah Mohammed al-Hamdi, were slain Tuesday. It gave no details of how they died and did not identify the assassins.

However, the government radio described the 34-year-old president as a "martyr," indicating he was not the victim of a coup by his associates on the presidential council. One diplomat in San'a said there was speculation the assassination was the result of a tribal feud.

The two other members of the ruling council are Maj. Abdul Aziz Ghani and Maj. Abdullah Abdul Aalem, Radio San'a reported.

"It seems to be a continuation of Hamdi's rule," one diplomat said.

Al-Hamdi's foreign policy was based on alliance with North Yemen's powerful and politically conservative northern neighbor, Saudi Arabia, and increasing cooperation with the United States.

However, the government radio in Marxist-run South Yemen said the assassination was "part of the imperialist plot designed to crush the struggle of the Yemeni people." Al-Hamdi, who had improved his country's sometimes warring relations with South Yemen, had been scheduled to visit Aden Thursday for national anniversary celebrations. The South Yemenis canceled the celebrations.

In a radio statement, the North Yemeni council called on the 5.5 million people of the desert country, one of the Arab world's least developed nations, to "exercise prudence and selfcontrol" during the crisis.

Al-Hamdi was the seventh important North Yemeni leader to be assassinated since the seven-year civil war that followed the overthrow of the feudal monarchy in 1962.

Al-Hamdi, a professional soldier, was credited with reorganizing the country's economic and administrative bureaucracy, starting an agricultural credit bank and a system of cooperatives, expanding port facilities and securing Saudi financial help for construction of an oil refinery.

Special Children Group Hosts Discussion On The Handicapped

HEARING ABOUT THE HANDICAPPED — Members running for school boards in the county talked with the Special Children group Monday about handicapped children and the schools. The candidates who attended the meeting and the districts they represent are front row, from the left, Sharyn Blecha and Jean Droste of Circleville and Carolyn McCoy of Logan Elm, back row, Everett Beers and Bonnie Hildenbrand of the County Board, Roger Kline of Teays Valley and Forrest Brown of Circleville. A candidate present but not pictured was Betty Jean Gutheil of Teays Valley.

The Special Children group met Monday evening to discuss the future of schools and their relationship to handicapped children.

Candidates for school boards around the county were invited to share their views with the group on the subject. Special Children is comprised of parents of children with mental or physical handicaps, and other interested persons.

The informal meeting was held at the Trinity Lutheran Church. Eight candidates for school boards met with parents and professionals in the handicapped field.

According to Public Law 94-142, all handicapped children are to receive free, specially designed education in the least restrictive environment.

Questions arose regarding building accessibility for physically handicapped students, attitude education of non-handicapped teachers and students, the adequacy of local special education programs and procedures for implementing and funding this new law.

Brooks Yates School Administrator Jay Clevenger and board member Marj Porter were present to field questions about the mental retardation program at the school and in the county. Several teachers from Brooks Yates also attended the meeting.

Subdivisions' Fates To Be Decided

many subdivision standards have to be met first.

The commission will consider a request for the modification of Woodview Drive in Elm Grove Estates. The modification would permit an addition of 100 feet to the road and would make it a dead end road instead of a through road as originally approved.

Tax Money Rents Tuxedo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first public accounting of a $2,000-a-year expense account given members of the House shows that tax money paid for concert tickets, bar association dues, car insurance and even a rented tuxedo.

The expenditures were in the first semi-annual report of the House clerk since the chamber passed a series of reforms in January. The report covers the first six months of 1977.

The fund has existed for years to cover House members' official expenses outside Washington. But there was no public accounting until a task force pushed through the revisions in House procedures.

Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., head of the task force, said Tuesday there are no rules for spending the money, but the panel's latest proposals could lead to such provisions.

The new recommendations, due to be considered today, call for appointment of an administrator to manage House operations and an auditor to oversee the members' accounts. These officials could "help work out some appropriate guidelines," Obey said in a telephone interview.

Members disclosed in the clerk's report that their accounts bought newspaper and magazine subscriptions, financed home offices and paid for travel in their districts. Dozens, however, used the non-Washington account to pay for meals in the House restaurant and other restaurants in Washington.

Rep. Joseph McDade, R-Pa., used $10 on tickets to a Harry James concert in March and spent $96 for a blind artists' concert in May.

Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., spent $40 for his Orange County Bar Association dues, $100 for his American Bar Association dues, $18 on a Yorba Linda country club assessment and $5 on dues to a Republican women's club.

Wiggins also was reimbursed $200 for his staff Christmas party, while Rep. Jerome Ambro, D-N.Y., paid nearly $95 to a Washington liquor store for inaugural reception supplies.

A $251 payment by Rep. Donald Pease, D-Ohio, went for auto insurance coverage on "district cars," and Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., spent $950 to decorate a recreational vehicle that served as a mobile summer office.

Rep. Richard Ottinger, D-N.Y., rented the tuxedo.

Obey said he has not read the clerk's report but added, "I can think of cases where drinks would be proper and occasions where they wouldn't be. You have to determine what's proper by how it was used, not by what the title is."

Market Report

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, unsettled by concern over rising interest rates, came under sharp selling pressure today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which hit a 22-month low on Tuesday, fell 6.32 to 826.06 in the first half hour.

Losers took a lopsided 4-1 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts blamed selling on fears of a continuation of the recent rise of interest rates.

Rising interest rates are often bad news for the stock market because they mean increased borrowing costs for business, and at the same time tend to attract money into fixed-income securities that might otherwise be earmarked for stocks.

Dow Chemical was the early volume leader among NYSE-listed issues, down 1/4 at 29 1/2.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 7.88 to 832.38, its lowest close since it finished at 824.15 on Dec. 9, 1975.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than a 2-1 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 17.87 million shares, up from 10.58 million on Monday.

The NYSE's composite index fell 41 to 52.09.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dropped .56 to 117.99.

Few Clues In Murder Of Girls

ELVATON, Md. (AP) — A knife sheath. Reports of a stranger in a blue Volkswagen. Some undisclosed autopsy details. That's all police say they have to go on in their investigation of the stabbings of three girls here.

"What we're withholding is very important to us. It's all we've got going for us," Sgt. William Chaplin of the Anne Arundel County homicide squad said of the autopsy reports.

Authorities have concentrated the search for the killer — or killers — in the Southgate neighborhood where Deborah Anne Hogan, 10; her sister Theresa, 8, and schoolmate Anne Marie Brzeszkiewicz, 8, lived and played.

The girls' parka-clad bodies were found Monday lying face down in a stream running through the muddy woods almost within sight of their suburban Baltimore homes. They disappeared Sunday evening while playing.

"All indications are that it is somebody in the community," was all Lt. Robert Russell would say Tuesday of the search for a suspect. "We are concentrating on the neighborhood."

Russell said two of the victims had been stabbed more than 40 times each. "Who or whoever did this is crazy. The (repetitiveness) with which the girls were stabbed was incredible," said Capt. William Lindsay.

Lindsay said the girls were stabbed in the chest, face, back, arms and hands. Superficial wounds on their hands indicated that the girls had struggled with their killer, he theorized.

Nobel Peace Prize Winner Leaves Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — The leader of the Moscow chapter of Amnesty International says the award of the 1977 Nobel Peace Prize to the parent organization has heartened his small group of human-rights activists. But he is quitting the country on Friday because he says life as a Soviet dissident has become unbearable.

"The term of life of a dissident is rather limited here," said Valentin Turchin. "It is somewhat surprising that during four years I have managed to be organizationally active."

Turchin spoke in an interview Tuesday, the day after the Nobel prize was announced, in his half-empty apartment on the edge of Moscow, open suitcases around him.

A doctor of physical-mathematical sciences, he is emigrating with his wife and two sons to teach at New York's Columbia University.

Four years ago, he and 10 other dissidents formed a group that later was accredited as a chapter of Amnesty International, the organization that focuses international attention on the plight of people imprisoned throughout the world for their racial, religious or political beliefs.

Five of the Moscow group's members have been jailed. Three have been allowed to leave the country. One has been expelled from the union that allowed him to work, and one has quit the group because of official pressure.

Turchin says he has been interrogated 13 times in the past 30 months.

"They have exhausted all measures of pressure against me short of arrest — searches, interrogations, stopping me in the street, formal warnings," he said. "You know that if you are an active dissident either you are arrested sooner or later or you have to leave."

He said Amnesty International's headquarters in London knows of "several hundred" political prisoners in the Soviet Union "through chains of acquaintances in the labor camps."

But "we don't know how many thousands there are outside these chains of acquaintances," he said.

Since the signing of the 1975 Helsinki accords, in which the Soviet government and the other signers pledged to observe human rights and fundamental freedoms, the situation of Soviet political prisoners has grown worse, Turchin said.

"This is the result of the beginning of a struggle by these prisoners for their rights," he said. "Since Helsinki, they demand a special status apart from other prisoners. They demand more close observance of the Soviet law. And they protest against violence and arbitrary treatment in the camps."

As a result, "prison officials have grown stricter and more tough. And they have tried to stop the flow of information in and out of the camps."

bus, pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon. He was sentenced to one to 10 years in the Ohio Penitentiary by Judge Ammer. Thompson was found to be a psychopathic offender, the judge said. He suspended the sentence and committed Thompson to Lima State Hospital until fit to be sent to the Ohio Penitentiary.

John H. Shaw, New Holland, was charged with violation of probation. He was found guilty of Sexual Imposition on Nov. 24, 1975, and was placed on three years probation at that time.

Judge Ammer continued the probation, and sentenced the defendant to serve 30 days in the county jail.

Richard Ray Stiltner, Sciotoville, pleaded not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity to a robbery that occurred Dec. 30, 1976. Judge Ammer ordered Stiltner to be examined by three psychiatrists.

Kenneth Eugene Pontious, Chillicothe, was accused of trespassing at a nursery south of Circleville with the intent to commit a theft. He pleaded guilty to the charge. Judge Ammer ordered a pre-sentence report.

William Jacob Noble, Frankfort, pleaded guilty to the same offense. The judge ordered a pre-sentence report for the defendant.

Check Two Mishaps

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Office investigated two injury accidents Tuesday.

The first occurred at 4:58 p.m. on U.S. Route 23 at the intersection with Logan Elm Boulevard.

According to Deputy Nick Franklin's report, Richard W. Oney, 28, Chillicothe, was northbound on U.S. 23 when another vehicle reportedly pulled into his path from the highway crossover at the Wacker Shopping Center.

In order to avoid a collision with that auto, Oney applied his brakes and slid 74 feet through the median strip of the highway. However, he struck an auto driven by George W. Trego, 54, 464 Stella Ave.

Trego complained of pain in his right shoulder and was referred to his family doctor.

Also assisting at the scene were Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and Deputy Sheriff Emmitt Dade.

The second accident occurred at 11:03 p.m. on U.S. Route 56, three tenths of a mile west of Stump Road.

According to Deputy Ken Henn's report, David G. Platz, 17, Kingston, was eastbound on SR 56, and was crossing the bridge over Salt Creek when he reportedly blacked out at the wheel.

His auto made slight contact with the side of the bridge, then went left of center after it had crossed the bridge and plunged down an embankment on the north side of the roadway.

Market Report

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, unsettled by concern over rising interest rates, came under sharp selling pressure today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which hit a 22-month low on Tuesday, fell 6.32 to 826.06 in the first half hour.

Losers took a lopsided 4-1 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts blamed selling on fears of a continuation of the recent rise of interest rates.

Rising interest rates are often bad news for the stock market because they mean increased borrowing costs for business, and at the same time tend to attract money into fixed-income securities that might otherwise be earmarked for stocks.

Dow Chemical was the early volume leader among NYSE-listed issues, down 1/4 at 29 1/2.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 7.88 to 832.38, its lowest close since it finished at 824.15 on Dec. 9, 1975.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than a 2-1 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 17.87 million shares, up from 10.58 million on Monday.

The NYSE's composite index fell .41 to 52.09.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dropped .56 to 117.99.

Few Clues In Murder Of Girls

ELVATON, Md. (AP) — A knife sheath. Reports of a stranger in a blue Volkswagen. Some undisclosed autopsy details. That's all police say they have to go on in their investigation of the stabbings of three girls here.

"What we're withholding is very important to us. It's all we've got going for us," Sgt. William Chaplin of the Anne Arundel County homicide squad said of the autopsy reports.

Authorities have concentrated the search for the killer — or killers — in the Southgate neighborhood where Deborah Anne Hogan, 10; her sister Theresa, 8, and schoolmate Anne Marie Brzeszkiewicz, 8, lived and played.

The girls' parka-clad bodies were found Monday lying face down in a stream running through the muddy woods almost within sight of their suburban Baltimore homes. They disappeared Sunday evening while playing.

"All indications are that it is somebody in the community," was all Lt. Robert Russell would say Tuesday of the search for a suspect. "We are concentrating on the neighborhood."

Russell said two of the victims had been stabbed more than 40 times each. "Who or whoever did this is crazy. The (repetitiveness) with which the girls were stabbed was incredible," said Capt. William Lindsay.

Lindsay said the girls were stabbed in the chest, face, back, arms and hands. Superficial wounds on their hands indicated that the girls had struggled with their killer, he theorized.

Nobel Peace Prize Winner Leaves Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — The leader of the Moscow chapter of Amnesty International says the award of the 1977 Nobel Peace Prize to the parent organization has heartened his small group of human-rights activists. But he is quitting the country on Friday because he says life as a Soviet dissident has become unbearable.

"The term of life of a dissident is rather limited here," said Valentin Turchin. "It is somewhat surprising that during four years I have managed to be organizationally active."

Turchin spoke in an interview Tuesday, the day after the Nobel prize was announced, in his half-empty apartment on the edge of Moscow, open suitcases around him.

A doctor of physical-mathematical sciences, he is emigrating with his wife and two sons to teach at New York's Columbia University.

Four years ago, he and 10 other dissidents formed a group that later was accredited as a chapter of Amnesty International, the organization that focuses international attention on the plight of people imprisoned throughout the world for their racial, religious or political beliefs.

Five of the Moscow group's members have been jailed. Three have been allowed to leave the country. One has been expelled from the union that allowed him to work, and one has quit the group because of official pressure.

Turchin says he has been interrogated 13 times in the past 30 months.

"They have exhausted all measures of pressure against me short of arrest — searches, interrogations, stopping me in the street, formal warnings," he said. "You know that if you are an active dissident either you are arrested sooner or later or you have to leave."

He said Amnesty International's headquarters in London knows of "several hundred" political prisoners in the Soviet Union "through chains of acquaintances in the labor camps."

But "we don't know how many thousands there are outside these chains of acquaintances," he said.

Since the signing of the 1975 Helsinki accords, in which the Soviet government and the other signers pledged to observe human rights and fundamental freedoms, the situation of Soviet political prisoners has grown worse, Turchin said.

"This is the result of the beginning of a struggle by these prisoners for their rights," he said. "Since Helsinki, they demand a special status apart from other prisoners. They demand more close observance of the Soviet law. And they protest against violence and arbitrary treatment in the camps."

As a result, "prison officials have grown stricter and more tough. And they have tried to stop the flow of information in and out of the camps."

bus, pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon. He was sentenced to one to 10 years in the Ohio Penitentiary by Judge Ammer. Thompson was found to be a psychopathic offender, the judge said. He suspended the sentence and committed Thompson to Lima State Hospital until fit to be sent to the Ohio Penitentiary.

John H. Shaw, New Holland, was charged with violation of probation. He was found guilty of Sexual Imposition on Nov. 24, 1975, and was placed on three years probation at that time.

Judge Ammer continued the probation, and sentenced the defendant to serve 30 days in the county jail.

Richard Ray Stiltner, Sciotoville, pleaded not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity to a robbery that occurred Dec. 30, 1976. Judge Ammer ordered Stiltner to be examined by three psychiatrists.

Kenneth Eugene Pontious, Chillicothe, was accused of trespassing at a nursery south of Circleville with the intent to commit a theft. He pleaded guilty to the charge. Judge Ammer ordered a pre-sentence report for the defendant.

William Jacob Noble, Frankfort, pleaded guilty to the same offense. The judge ordered a pre-sentence report for the defendant.

Sheriff's Deputies Check Two Mishaps

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Office investigated two injury accidents Tuesday.

The first occurred at 4:58 p.m. on U.S. Route 23 at the intersection with Logan Elm Boulevard.

According to Deputy Nick Franklin's report, Richard W. Oney, 28, Chillicothe, was northbound on U.S. 23 when another vehicle reportedly pulled into his path from the highway crossover at the Wacker Shopping Center.

In order to avoid a collision with that auto, Oney applied his brakes and slid 74 feet through the median strip of the highway. However, he struck an auto driven by George W. Trego, 54, 464 Stella Ave.

Trego complained of pain in his right shoulder and was referred to his family doctor.

Also assisting at the scene were Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and Deputy Sheriff Emmitt Dade.

The second accident occurred at 11:03 p.m. on U.S. Route 56, three tenths of a mile west of Stump Road.

According to Deputy Ken Henn's report, David G. Platz, 17, Kingston, was eastbound on SR 56, and was crossing the bridge over Salt Creek when he reportedly blacked out at the wheel.

His auto made slight contact with the side of the bridge, then went left of center after it had crossed the bridge and plunged down an embankment on the north side of the roadway.

Lady Throws Flag On Ohio TD Lottery

CLEVELAND (AP) — Frieda Howard has called a penalty on the Ohio Lottery's Touchdown game, claiming the lottery owes her $10,000.

But lottery officials maintain her Touchdown ticket was a misprint.

The University Heights woman filed suit in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court Tuesday charging that her instant lottery ticket entitles her to the prize money.

A spokesman for the lottery said that although the ticket shows a winning number of seven, the number was a computer misprint and should have read 17. The spokesman said if the number was supposed to be seven there would have been a zero in front of it, which there wasn't.

Gary B. Garson, Mrs. Howard's attorney, said that though there might have been a misprint, the lottery still should honor the ticket.

Mrs. Howard is asking for the $10,000 prize, plus $50,000 in punitive damages.

Lottery Director Gerald Patronite said this is the first misprint he's heard about. He said he has established a lottery complaint department.

"My sentiment would be to pay this claim," said Patronite. "But every law that was written since 1803 works against the claimant."

150 persons were in attendance at a carry-in dinner held last Sunday evening at the Hedges Chapel United Methodist Church honoring the Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Marckel and daughter Valerie. The members of the Village and Hedges Chapel Churches had the combined dinner to welcome the Marckels to the charge.

Following the dinner a delightful program was presented by the members of the Metta Larks. Louise Barr was the District Attorney, Metta Dill the Prosecuting Attorney, Carolyn Lutz the Bailiff and Lois Schiff the

He was found guilty, by the congregation, for being enthusiastic, well-versed, well organized, etc. In the middle of the trial in rides the cop, David Dill, on a scooter and found the Rev. Marckel guilty of speeding, (speeding through a sermon that is). Upon being found guilty the judge asked if he should be given the chair. All agreed and the Rev. Marckel was presented a rocking chair, a gift from the members of the churches. All through the skit the Metta Larks sang several appropriate songs, ending with "Nothing is Impossible."

Delmer Doddrell was the master of ceremonies for the evening and led the group in prayer. The Rev. Marckel then gave some brief remarks, thanking everyone for the kindness which had been shown to him and his family.

The dining room of the church and tables were beautifully decorated with fall flowers.

These numbers should be as large as possible, since they must be seen from the roadway both day and night. By doing this, each resident can insure more accurate response by both the squad and fire units.

Please advise the sheriff's department your house number in town and the house number and location from the nearest intersection if you live in the country, whenever reporting a fire or emergency by phone.

This is Fire Prevention Week. Harrison Township Firemen conducted fire drills and inspection of all Teays Valley School buildings in the fire district on Monday, Oct. 10. This is also the beginning of the heating season and firemen encourage all residents to have their furnaces properly inspected for your family's protection. You should also check your home for a build up of trash in corners, flammable products stored in your basement and faulty electrical cords. Also be sure that matches are out of the reach of children. If at anytime, you have, or suspect you have a fire, call for the fire department at 474-2176. Never hesitate to call, delayed alarms can only cost additional damage and possible personal injury.

Lady Throws Flag On Ohio TD Lottery

CLEVELAND (AP) — Frieda Howard has called a penalty on the Ohio Lottery's Touchdown game, claiming the lottery owes her $10,000.

But lottery officials maintain her Touchdown ticket was a misprint.

The University Heights woman filed suit in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court Tuesday charging that her instant lottery ticket entitles her to the prize money.

A spokesman for the lottery said that although the ticket shows a winning number of seven, the number was a computer misprint and should have read 17. The spokesman said if the number was supposed to be seven there would have been a zero in front of it, which there wasn't.

Gary B. Garson, Mrs. Howard's attorney, said that though there might have been a misprint, the lottery still should honor the ticket.

Mrs. Howard is asking for the $10,000 prize, plus $50,000 in punitive damages.

Lottery Director Gerald Patronite said this is the first misprint he's heard about. He said he has established a lottery complaint department.

"My sentiment would be to pay this claim," said Patronite. "But every law that was written since 1803 works against the claimant."

Saturday from 1-5 p.m. at the railroad station. It should be fun!

150 persons were in attendance at a carry-in dinner held last Sunday evening at the Hedges Chapel United Methodist Church honoring the Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Marckel and daughter Valerie. The members of the Village and Hedges Chapel Churches had the combined dinner to welcome the Marckels to the charge.

Following the dinner a delightful program was presented by the members of the Metta Larks. Louise Barr was the District Attorney, Metta Dill the Prosecuting Attorney, Carolyn Lutz the Bailiff and Lois Schiff the Judge in a courtroom scene. First accused and tried on the witness stand was Bonnie Marckel. She was found guilty of being kind, considerate, good to all, fine housekeeper, etc. The next accused was the Rev. Marckel. He was found guilty, by the congregation, for being enthusiastic, well-versed, well organized, etc. In the middle of the trial in rides the cop, David Dill, on a scooter and found the Rev. Marckel guilty of speeding, (speeding through a sermon that is). Upon being found guilty the judge asked if he should be given the chair. All agreed and the Rev. Marckel was presented a rocking chair, a gift from the members of the churches. All through the skit the Metta Larks sang several appropriate songs, ending with "Nothing is Impossible."

Delmer Doddrell was the master of ceremonies for the evening and led the group in prayer. The Rev. Marckel then gave some brief remarks, thanking everyone for the kindness which had been shown to him and his family.

The dining room of the church and tables were beautifully decorated with fall flowers.

The Tri-State Conference for American Lutheran Church Women was held at Glenford, Ohio, last Saturday. This was an all day meeting.

The theme of the meeting was "A Bird's Eye View of the 1978 Program".

Those attending from First English in Ashville were Mrs. Robert Grahl, Mrs. Helen Hedges and Mrs. Georgia Dore. From St. Paul Lutheran, Mrs. Wright Noecker and Mrs. Ray Noecker and from Lockbourne St. Matthew, Mrs. Helen Kuhlwein and the Rev. Wilmer Hollman.

From the murky beginnings of national energy consciousness, coal has played an increasing role. Despite the fact many people do not like what happens when coal is mined or when it is burned, it exists in abundance. That cannot be said for many other fuels.

Economic considerations aside—mostly because they change so rapidly it is difficult to make fuel comparisons—coal seems destined to play an important role in the transition from petroleum to whatever energy sources of the future may be. With oil imports now providing more than 40 per cent of domestic consumption and throwing trade balances heavily into the red, the question is not whether this heavy dependence will hurt the nation but when.

That "when" could arrive at any time. Perhaps it is that realization which has prompted President Carter to try to weave a large role for coal into the nation's future. In the energy plan the Senate has been altering radically is a call to double the output of coal by 1985. There is little evidence to indicate that goal is achievable, but it does demonstrate the administration's concern.

Even before the plan can be implemented, a federal judge in Washington has thrown further doubt around the coal role by prohibiting further coal leases on federal land until the environmental impact statement is reviewed and rewritten. That could take two years, by Interior Department estimates.

Considering that coal remains the only major fallback fuel in an energy-short era, some people seem to take its recovery very casually.

Tragedy Of Karen Ann

By JIM BISHOP

There are patients in comas in thousands of hospitals. Only one has stirred the country: Karen Ann Quinlan. She has been unconscious for two-and-a-half years. Millions of people have strong opinions about whether she should live or die.

The parents, Joseph and Julia Quinlan, have endured a private hell. They sued to have the life support systems removed. They won. But Karen Ann did not die. She rasps each tortured breath on her own.

The stories about this girl have been so dramatic, so misinformed, that the Quinlans looked around for someone who could write a book truly and well. They asked Phyllis Battelle to do it.

I flinch from superlatives. But Battelle is a journalist of the old Who? What? When? Where? Why? school. She has the quiet, confident approach of the consummate craftsman. I sat up all night reading "Karen Ann".

Karen Ann was a dark-haired, dark-eyed laughter. Life, at the age of 21, was a ball. She endured the frowns of her religious parents when she left home in April, 1975, to rent a room 10 miles away. As she explained it: "Dad, if you can't make it on your own at 21, you'll never make it."

She didn't make it. The Quinlans got a pre-dawn phone call to hurry to Newton Memorial Hospital. Karen was unconscious in intensive care. In the gleaming corridor, the Quinlans were introduced to Tom French and a girl, Terry O'Neill, friends of Karen.

They had celebrated Terry's birthday at a tavern called Falconer's with a boy named Bill Zywot. It wasn't much of a party. Karen had three gin and tonics. She began to lisp as though she were drunk.

Party-pooper. They brought her back to her room and placed her on her bed. Some time later, Tom French said he'd check on Karen. He listened for sleep breathing. There wasn't any.

He yelled for help. They tried mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. They called an ambulance. A cop arrived. He peeled her eyelids back, yanked her off the bed, and gave her resuscitation. Karen began to breathe.

No one knows how long breathing was suspended. Anything more than 240 seconds will induce brain damage. Karen Ann Quinlan's mind was beyond repair. Her body continued to function.

The doctors made exhaustive tests for narcotics. Nothing. Someone said she had taken a tablet of valium. The doctor admitted that it could have a bearing on the girl's condition—taken in concert with alcohol—but he doubted it.

For almost two years, the Quinlans have stared at their struggling Karen, and listened to the pump-thump of the machines. Sometimes Karen stares wildly from left to right. At others she pops up in bed, her head twisting. The hands, the feet, keep turning inward and drawing upward.

She was beyond torturing. Her parents weren't. One night Julia said to Joe, "I hope to God she either makes it or she dies." The father was shocked. The mother sensed that Karen already had one foot in another world.

The doctors talked again to Tom French and the cop. They felt that Karen had stopped breathing for two periods of almost 15 minutes. For this girl, there is no road back. The Supreme Court of the State of New Jersey authorized the pulling of plugs which kept her alive.

But the heart continues. If a nurse bumps the bed accidentally, Karen jumps up, terror in the empty eyes. She is fed intravenously. Her wastes are removed mechanically. She has faced pneumonia a dozen times. On each occasion medical science has brought Karen from death to nothing.

Sometimes she appears to be "awake," at others "sleeping." Her dark hair became matted with sweat on her cheeks. Nurses cut it. Sometimes her jaws chew. At others she emits a loud moan.

No one, it seems, will know why Karen fell unconscious on her bed. Or why no one sat beside her when she stopped breathing. The Intensive Care room she occupied was estimated at $465 a day for 900 days, that would come to $418,500.

Karen is a broken doll. She writhes, she moans, she sweats, the eyelids flicker. Most doctors agree that decortication is her true injury. This is the death of the cortex of the brain. Without it, consciousness is impossible.

It is long past Karen's bedtime . . .

Business World

By JOHN CUNNEIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The millenium might be short-lived, say some critics of the huge discounts now being offered by scheduled transatlantic air carriers on the New York-London run.

The misuse of the term is intentional, designed by the critics, among them some U.S. government officials, to draw attention to what they say may be predatory, below-cost pricing by the scheduled airlines.

If the scheduled airlines manage to drive out of business their competition, the supplemental or charter airlines, what then? Will the $256 roundtrip discount price revert to the regular 14-21 day tourist fare of $541?

Those who raise the questions doubt that the millenium, or thousand years of peace and happiness, has come to the troubled skies, as some consumers think. They say we shouldn't be surprised if it all ends as suddenly as it came.

Both the Justice Department and the Civil Aeronautics Board have openly suggested the possibility of a regression to the old fares. Overruled by President Carter, Alfred Kahn, CAB chairman, recently reaffirmed his views in a letter to the Wall Street Journal.

The competition, Kahn pointed out, is not so much among the many members of the International Air Transport Association, "a governmentally supported price-fixing cartel," as it is between IATA members and the supplemental airlines.

The latter do not run on regular schedules but instead charter out their crafts to groups. Running full most of the time, and not burdened with maintaining regular schedules, they generally can offer lower rates than the scheduled lines.

Some of the charter lines now would like to get into the scheduled end of the business and, in fact, one of them has. Laker Airways, a British firm, has obtained permission to operate a scheduled line, on a standby or no reservation basis.

The IATA lines, fearful of such competition, drastically discounted their prices to a level that many airline analysts say are below their costs, and which cannot be maintained without governmental subsidies, or, in effect, by subsidies from regular customers on other routes.

Thus the argument has developed that they are seeking not only to drive the supplementals out of the charter business, but remove them also as potential competitors for regularly scheduled routes.

One spokesman for a supplemental airline said this week that "at the present scheduled discount rates there's no possibility of us even attempting to obtain scheduled routes; the fares simply are too low for profit."

William Leonard, senior vice president of Trans International, the world's largest charter airline, maintains that predatory pricing has been used before and that it accomplished its goal—driving out the supplementals.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A patient, a 20-year-old girl, made a bright observation that deserves to be brought to the attention of my readers. She became aware of intense pain in the eyes every time she used any kind of aerosol deodorant or hair spray. She made another interesting observation. She found that there were times that she was not able to use her contact lenses after being exposed to the same kind of sprays.

I made inquiry from a number of eye specialists who concurred with her "diagnosis." Apparently, specks of the chemical substances that are expelled at a high speed through the nozzle of an aerosol dispenser can injure the delicate outer covering of the eye (the conjunctiva).

The reaction of redness and pain is exactly like that which occurs when a speck of dust flies into the eye. The tiny particles may even become embedded in the eyes if the spray is accidentally directed straight into them.

There is an additional danger that the "freezing" propellant of the bomb may cause damage, too. Fortunately, legislation now is aimed at the elimination of aerosol propellants. Even the new "squeeze" tops should be used with care in order to avoid injury to the eyes.

We've been trying to have a baby for two years. The many doctors whom we've consulted haven't been able to find any problem with me or my husband that would account for my infertility. I haven't had the courage to ask any of my doctors if there's a possibility that my problem may be psychological. I can't even discuss the matter with my husband. He becomes angry and refuses to talk about what he thinks is nonsense. Am I too far off base in this speculation?

Mrs. H. B., Ore.

Dear Mrs. B.:

Your physicians would be the first to welcome an open discussion about the very wise idea that you introduce. In fact, the complete fertility workup done by specialists in the field always includes an evaluation of the psychological and emotional factors that may exist in relationships between wives and husbands.

When a thorough study fails to reveal any organic or physical defect, the possibility of emotional conflicts, tensions and stress are given top priority.

Frequently, slight physical defects which ordinarily would not interfere with fertility may do so in the presence of emotional problems.

You are wise to give this consideration. Perhaps there are some underlying emotional problems which neither you nor your husband have been aware of. Open discussion between yourselves and, later with your doctors may be a far more important contribution than your husband thinks.

Sometimes she appears to be "awake," at others "sleeping." Her dark hair became matted with sweat on her cheeks. Nurses cut it. Sometimes her jaws chew. At others she emits a loud moan.

No one, it seems, will know why Karen fell unconscious on her bed. Or why no one sat beside her when she stopped breathing. The Intensive Care room she occupied was estimated at $465 a day for 900 days, that would come to $418,500.

Karen is a broken doll. She writhes, she moans, she sweats, the eyelids flicker. Most doctors agree that decortication is her true injury. This is the death of the cortex of the brain. Without it, consciousness is impossible.

It is long past Karen's bedtime . . .

Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The millennium might be short-lived, say some critics of the huge discounts now being offered by scheduled transatlantic air carriers on the New York-London run.

The misuse of the term is intentional, designed by the critics, among them some U.S. government officials, to draw attention to what they say may be predatory, below-cost pricing by the scheduled airlines.

If the scheduled airlines manage to drive out of business their competition, the supplemental or charter airlines, what then? Will the $256 roundtrip discount price revert to the regular 14-21 day tourist fare of $541?

Those who raise the questions doubt that the millennium, or thousand years of peace and happiness, has come to the troubled skies, as some consumers think. They say we shouldn't be surprised if it all ends as suddenly as it came.

Both the Justice Department and the Civil Aeronautics Board have openly suggested the possibility of a regression to the old fares. Overruled by President Carter, Alfred Kahn, CAB chairman, recently reaffirmed his views in a letter to the Wall Street Journal.

The competition, Kahn pointed out, is not so much among the many members of the International Air Transport Association, "a governmentally supported price-fixing cartel," as it is between IATA members and the supplemental airlines.

The latter do not run on regular schedules but instead charter out their crafts to groups. Running full most of the time, and not burdened with maintaining regular schedules, they generally can offer lower rates than the scheduled lines.

Some of the charter lines now would like to get into the scheduled end of the business and, in fact, one of them has. Laker Airways, a British firm, has obtained permission to operate a scheduled line, on a standby or no reservation basis.

The IATA lines, fearful of such competition, drastically discounted their prices to a level that many airline analysts say are below their costs, and which cannot be maintained without governmental subsidies, or, in effect, by subsidies from regular customers on other routes.

Thus the argument has developed that they are seeking not only to drive the supplementals out of the charter business, but remove them also as potential competitors for regularly scheduled routes.

One spokesman for a supplemental airline said this week that "at the present scheduled discount rates there's no possibility of us even attempting to obtain scheduled routes; the fares simply are too low for profit."

William Leonard, senior vice president of Trans International, the world's largest charter airline, maintains that predatory pricing has been used before and that it accomplished its goal — driving out the supplementals.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A patient, a 20-year-old girl, made a bright observation that deserves to be brought to the attention of my readers. She became aware of intense pain in the eyes every time she used any kind of aerosol deodorant or hair spray. She made another interesting observation. She found that there were times that she was not able to use her contact lenses after being exposed to the same kind of sprays.

I made inquiry from a number of eye specialists who concurred with her "diagnosis." Apparently, specks of the chemical substances that are expelled at a high speed through the nozzle of an aerosol dispenser can injure the delicate outer covering of the eye (the conjunctiva).

The reaction of redness and pain is exactly like that which occurs when a speck of dust flies into the eye. The tiny particles may even become embedded in the eyes if the spray is accidentally directed straight into them.

There is an additional danger that the "freezing" propellant of the bomb may cause damage, too. Fortunately, legislation now is aimed at the elimination of aerosol propellants. Even the new "squeeze" tops should be used with care in order to avoid injury to the eyes.

We've been trying to have a baby for two years. The many doctors whom we've consulted haven't been able to find any problem with me or my husband that would account for my infertility. I haven't had the courage to ask any of my doctors if there's a possibility that my problem may be psychological. I can't even discuss the matter with my husband. He becomes angry and refuses to talk about what he thinks is nonsense. Am I too far off base in this speculation?

Mrs. H. B., Ore.

Dear Mrs. B.:

Your physicians would be the first to welcome an open discussion about the very wise idea that you introduce. In fact, the complete fertility workup done by specialists in the field always includes an evaluation of the psychological and emotional factors that may exist in relationships between wives and husbands.

When a thorough study fails to reveal any organic or physical defect, the possibility of emotional conflicts, tensions and stress are given top priority.

Frequently, slight physical defects which ordinarily would not interfere with fertility may do so in the presence of emotional problems.

You are wise to give this consideration. Perhaps there are some underlying emotional problems which neither you nor your husband have been aware of. Open discussion between yourselves and, later with your doctors may be a far more important contribution than your husband thinks.

Senate Is Thwarting Carter Energy Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — "All I'm trying to do," Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd said during a moment of extreme frustration last week, "is get the ox out of the ditch."

At the time, Byrd was referring only to the two-week Senate deadlock over natural gas prices, but he could just as easily have had a broader point in mind.

For almost every section of President Carter's energy plan, the Senate has proven to be one long ditch full of wallowing oxen.

And it appears unlikely that Byrd or anyone else will be able to coax them out.

Allies of the President say the White House did not anticipate strong Senate resistance to the energy program and as a result the administration must cling to the hope of salvaging part of its package in congressional conference committees.

When Carter sent his complex energy package to Capitol Hill with great fanfare in April, some said it might sail through the Senate but would face trouble in the House.

House members, up for election every two years, were held to be much less likely to approve such a radical use of taxes and other economic tools for an American electorate grown skeptical about whether there is really an energy shortage.

That argument ignored the political acumen of House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and a weakened House committee structure. Wilbur Mills was gone as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and O'Neill superimposed an Ad Hoc Energy Committee, whose sole job was to whip the work of five established panels into one single piece of legislation.

O'Neill set firm deadlines for House committees to finish their work. With the new President still benefiting from the good will given every new administration, the energy package moved through the House with unprecedented speed.

The House did cut out a few major provisions of the plan like tax rebates for buyers of small cars and across-the-board increases in gasoline taxes.

But O'Neill and other administration allies were able to sustain a rolling momentum despite attempts by Republicans and some oil and gas state Democrats to put more emphasis on new production of fuels in place of taxes and other incentives.

House passage of the energy bill in the first week of August was hailed as a major victory for the administration. The jubilation was short lived.

Why? "The Senate is a different ball park," Byrd has been heard to say somewhat defensively when his performance is compared with O'Neill's successes.

Senate committees are jealous of their prerogatives and their judgments are respected when legislation reaches the Senate floor.

So when the Senate Energy Committee was unable to break a deadlock over whether to deregulate natural gas prices, the result was a filibuster on the Senate floor that challenged Byrd's prestige and ended with a major victory for the natural gas industry.

Some of the Senate's most powerful men are independent-minded politicians who head committees with jurisdiction over provisions of the plan they oppose.

Under the chairman, Sen. Russell Long, D-La., the Senate Finance Committee looked long and hard at the multibillion dollar collection of taxes in the energy package.

Republicans and oil state Democrats combined to kill proposals for rebates to consumers to offset the energy taxes designed to raise U.S. prices to world levels and force American industry to shift from oil and gas to more abundant coal.

That left Long to fight almost alone for the various energy taxes because liberals on the committee were suspicious of his insistence that the increased revenues should be turned back to the oil producers to encourage the search for new reserves.

Beyond that, there is a deep conviction among some senators that, although the energy package has worthwhile goals, it was thrown together hurriedly without adequate study of its impact on the economy.

"I think the tax portion was very ill conceived," said Sen. Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., a member of both the Energy and Finance committees. "They are trying to use taxes in a way that taxes should not be used."

Home Museum

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Bob Abbott bought the old family home of Martha Mitchell, the wife of former U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, just two weeks before her death last year and are restoring the house as a museum.

The house has a sentimental attachment for Mrs. Abbott, who said that, as a teen-ager, she took speech lessons there from Mrs. Mitchell's mother, the late Mrs. George Beall. The house was built in 1895 by Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Ferguson, Mrs. Mitchell's maternal grandparents.

Mrs. Mitchell was born in the house Sept. 2, 1918.

Some of the house's original furniture, including Mrs. Mitchell's girlhood bedroom furniture, will be in the museum when it is opened to the public, Mrs. Abbott said.

Ohio Urban Crime Decreases

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Total criminal acts in Ohio's eight largest cities showed a 3 to 20 per cent decrease during the first six months of 1977 when compared to the same period a year ago, according to national statistics.

The greatest improvement was in Akron where total crime was reduced by 20 per cent with seven out of eight types of crimes decreasing in frequency, according to the uniform crime reports released today by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The FBI separates crime into two categories — the violent crimes of murder, rape, robbery, and aggravated assault; and the property crimes of burglary, larceny-theft, and motor vehicle theft.

In Akron, the number of killings rose from 12 to 18, but all other crimes decreased. Cleveland showed the lowest percentage decrease of total crime with a reduction of 3 per cent between 1976 and 1977. However, in Cleveland the number of murders, rapes, assaults, larcenies, and motor vehicle thefts all decreased, while robberies rose from 2,454 to 2,857 and burglaries rose from 7,158. There were 100 murders in 1977 compared to 121 in 1976.

Toledo had the worst record by crime category. Only the number of larcenies were reduced while all other categories showed increases. Murders rose to 22 in 1977 compared to 17 in the first six months of the year before. The substantial drop in larcenies, from 10,397 to 9,081, gave the city a 7 per cent decrease in total criminal acts.

Other Ohio cities and the percentage decrease of total crime in each are: Canton, 9; Cincinnati, 10; Columbus 13; Dayton 6; and Youngstown 18.

Other cities in which murder increased and the number of killings for 1976 and 1977 respectively are Canton, 2-7; Columbus, 25-32; and Dayton, 26-38.

Nationally, violent crime showed no change in 1977 when compared to the previous year, while crimes against property decreased by 7 per cent.

Of Ohio's eight largest cities, five showed increases in murder and rape, four in robbery, and three in aggravated assault; while three showed increases in burglary, one in larceny and four in motor vehicle theft.

Crimes in American cities with more than 25,000 inhabitants decreased by 7 per cent. Suburbs showed a 6 per cent decline, while rural areas dropped by 4 per cent.

Alinari Family

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — For three generations, the Alinari family photographed Europe's works of art, monuments, landscapes and architecture. One thousand of their photographs, documents and pieces of photographic equipment recently went on display at Fort Belvedere here.

The exhibit, a sampling of the 120,000-piece Alinari family archives, is arranged in six categories: documents and photographs of the Alinari family, images of Florence, art treasures, cameras and accessories and pictures of European cities and landscapes.

Leopoldo Alinari, an engraver's son, became involved in commercial photography in the 19th century when it was still a relatively new concept. He was joined by his brothers, Giuseppe and Vittorio, and grandsons, Leopoldo and Carlo, also became photographers in the family firm.

The company, Fratelli Alinari S.p.A., was sold in 1920. The current owners expanded the archives and are managing the exhibit.

Counties Can Consolidate Bond Issues

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Counties proposing bond issues for multiple building construction projects could combine them into a single ballot proposal under an emergency bill signed into law Tuesday by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The immediately effective legislation, requested for Hamilton County by Rep. William L. Mallory, D-23 Cincinnati, does away with a requirement for each specific building project to be listed on the ballot. The grouping of proposals already is permitted for highway construction projects.

Two other immediately effective measures also were signed Tuesday by the governor.

One allows county children's services boards to establish vacations and other benefits for employees. The other confirms a land sale agreement between the lakelands administrator and property owners along Indian Lake in Logan County.

A regular nonemergency measure, which exempts county agricultural societies from having to register as charitable trusts with the attorney general, also received the governor's approval.

It becomes effective Jan. 10, 1978.

The Perseids is a spectacular annual meteor shower that occurs each August. In 1921, observers saw up to 250 flashes per hour at the height of the shower, but 50 flashes is said to be average. The shower is named for the constellation Perseids, from which the meteors appear to originate.

Turnpike Bonds Retired

COLUMBUS, Ohio (A) — Ohio Turnpike bonds totaling $4.54 million were retired in September, the Commission has reported. With these purchases, $11.8 million in bonds have been retired this year, and the commission's debt has been reduced to $64 million.

The commission also reported September revenues of $4.5 million, which was more than 5 per cent above last year. Revenues were up an estimated 6.3 per cent for the first nine months of the year.

Industrial Society Transformation Seen

NEW YORK (AP) — Industrial society is facing a transformation that will rival the fall of the Roman Empire, says Willis W. Harman in "management Review," a publication of the American Management Association.

Harman, a former White House consultant and member of the Stanford Research Institute, says the stability of modern society is being undercut by protest movements, alienation from work and Third World insistence on a new economic order.

According to Harman, the system also suffers from a lack of moral guidelines. He cites pollution, nuclear arsenals and uneven distribution of the earth's resources as evidence of weak social ethics.

Harman predicts these factors will create a period of intense chaos, one that may produce a "transindustrial society" which values moral principles as well as technology.

ARTICLE V

SECTION 1. Every citizen of the United States, of the age of eighteen years, who has been a resident of the state, county, township, or ward, such time as may be provided by law, AND HAS BEEN REGISTERED TO VOTE FOR THIRTY DAYS, has the qualifications of an elector, and is entitled to vote at all elections. ANY ELECTOR WHO FAILS TO VOTE IN AT LEAST ONE ELECTION DURING ANY PERIOD OF FOUR CONSECUTIVE YEARS SHALL CEASE TO BE AN ELECTOR UNLESS HE AGAIN REGISTERS TO VOTE.

YES

SHALL THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT BE ADOPTED?

ARGUMENT FOR THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

VOTE YES ON HONEST ELECTIONS
VOTE YES ON ISSUE 1

SAFEGUARD YOUR VOTE. VOTE YES ON ISSUE 1.

Issue 1 restores the 30-day residency safeguard to voter registration and requires anyone who has not voted in four years to re-register. This prevents someone from voting falsely in an area where they do not reside or from wrongfully attempting to use the name or registration of someone who has moved away or died.

See that your vote is not stolen or cancelled by a tombstone.

Vote YES on Issue 1.

PROTECT YOUR CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHT TO VOTE. VOTE YES ON ISSUE 1.

You have the constitutionally guaranteed right to be counted on every vote you cast. Issue 1 protects that right by insisting on safeguards against multiple or fraudulent voting. Without it, the U.S. Justice Department has warned, there is almost no way to trace the wide open vote fraud that could occur. Instant registration can mean instant fraud. Vote yes for integrity in government. Vote YES on Issue 1.

ISSUE 1 SAVES THE TAXPAYER'S MONEY. VOTE YES ON ISSUE 1.

Issue 1 will prevent the squandering of over $2.3 million of taxpayer's money. These funds will be automatically spent if Issue 1 is not passed and the current law is allowed to stand.

ISSUE 1 CAN PREVENT THE BOSSES AND MACHINES FROM TAKING OVER. VOTE YES ON ISSUE 1.

Issue 1 keeps elections in the hands of the people and out of the pockets of the big machine bosses, by protecting the integrity of the individual vote. It guarantees every Ohioan a voice in government by denying the bosses the opportunity for easy and undetected mass vote fraud. Vote for your right to vote. Vote YES on Issue 1.

ELECTION DAY REGISTRATION MEANS ELECTION FRAUD. VOTE YES ON ISSUE 1.

Committee for the Amendment: Jean M. Barren, William A. Miller, Jr., W.C. Channell, and William H. Schneider.

ARGUMENT AGAINST THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Ohioans deserve elections systems that make it easy to register and vote. Ohio's new election law does that through Election Day and permanent registration.

In 22 Ohio counties, residents have always had the right to vote on Election Day without registering in advance. Now all eligible Ohioans may register on Election Day.

Issue 1 would prohibit Election Day registration for all of us. It continues restrictions that shut out potential voters. Over two million eligible Ohioans are not registered. Last fall only 56 per cent voted.

YOU SHOULD KNOW:

1. Separate lines for registration and voting makes Election Day registration convenient for voters.
2. States that have it report turnouts of between 65 per cent and 76 per cent.
3. Even the FBI couldn't find any fraud in the five states with Election Day registration, and the people of Ohio are every bit as honest as they are.
4. Ohio's new Election Law strengthens the protection against fraud by requiring registrants to show identification and providing for five year prison terms for anyone voting twice.

5. It requires automatic purging from registration lists when people move or die.
6. Election Day registration is the cheapest way to register voters.

ISSUE 1

- ... denies Ohioans the right to use Election Day registration even though it works in other states.
- ... makes it more difficult for political independents to have a voice in government.
- ... freezes the ban on Election Day registration into our Constitution before we have a chance to see how it works.

Election Day registration works without fraud. Even Cuyahoga County's GOP Chairman admits the claims of fraud are "pure baloney". What really worries them is not fraud — it's more voters.

VOTE NO ON ISSUE 1

Committee against the Amendment: Don Maddux, J. Leonard Camera, C. J. McLin, Tony P. Hall, Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, and John K. Mahoney.

ARGUMENT FOR THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Passage of Issue 2 will prevent needless and extreme pain and suffering for untold numbers of animals. The effect of Issue 2 is similar to the long accepted and humane practice of putting a horse out of its misery rather than permitting it to suffer after it breaks a leg.

Issue 2 in no way bans trapping as either a sport or profession in Ohio. It does eliminate the use of the leghold trap, a device which severely injures its victim and then continues to hold the creature in a continuing, and often long, period of extreme pain.

Several types of quick kill traps are available which do not inflict such suffering. These traps would still be legal and available to all persons wishing to engage in trapping.

Persons who wish to trap for pest or disease control or for wildlife management purposes may also continue to do so, providing that any of the many quick kill traps available are used.

Issue 2 also prohibits the use of any trapping device it if is used in a manner which will cause continued, prolonged suffering. This prohibition will not affect the proper use of any of the quick kill traps.

Simply put, passage of Issue 2 will end suffering for animals whose pelts are a valuable natural resource. And, as more humane traps are used, fewer non-valuable animals and pets will be accidentally trapped in Ohio. However, while protecting Ohio animals, humane trapping will still be permitted as a sport or profession in this state. Committee for the Amendment: Robert E. Cape, Michael J. Donohue, Anthony A. Kleinschmidt, Bruce Rouch, and Sandra E. Rowland.

ARGUMENT AGAINST THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Opponents of Issue 2, the anti-trapping amendment, urge Ohioans to vote "NO" for three primary reasons:

1. The amendment would ban all trapping activities, not just the leghold trap.
2. Trapping, including the use of the leghold trap, is necessary for proper wildlife management and conservation.
3. The subject — allowable devices for catching wild animals — should not be included in the Constitution of the State of Ohio.

The proposal as written, seeks to outlaw the use of "any trapping device," which may even include mouse traps and rat traps, cages and nets. No distinction is made among devices. Any method that traps an animal or bird can be said to produce suffering. Scientists trap certain wild animals for rabies research and birds for encephalitis tests. Opponents of Issue 2 believe this important work on disease control would be curtailed by passage of the amendment.

Good wildlife management requires that wild animal populations be controlled at levels consistent with the space and food available to sustain them. An absence of trapping to aide population control will result, first in burgeoning populations of, for example, fast-breeding muskrats and raccoons; followed by destruction of the species through starvation and disease. The trapping of wild animals in Ohio is regulated by the Division of Wildlife to protect domestic pets from the ravages of contagious diseases and to limit the taking of wild animals to surplus animal population and pests. Trapping for pest control must also be carried on by farmers to protect their crops from rodents.

The Constitution of this state is the basic document which establishes our form of government and delineates the rights of our citizens. It should not be cluttered with issues, which, if to be legislated at all, should be enacted into law by the Ohio General Assembly.

Committee against the Amendment: Ronald James, Bob McEwen, Ronald K. Milleson, Jerome Stano, and M. Ben Gaeth.

TEXT OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF OHIO THAT ARTICLE XIX OF THE OHIO CONSTITUTION BE ENACTED AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. No person shall use in any manner in the trapping of wild birds or wild quadrupeds any leghold trap in this state. No person shall use any trapping device in a manner which will cause continued, prolonged suffering to a wild bird or wild quadruped in this state.

Section 2. Each separate violation of this amendment constitutes a crime. In addition, any person may bring a civil action in any Common Pleas Court for an injunction to stop violations of this amendment. Such person may recover the costs of the action and reasonable attorneys fees.

Former Musician Teaching Business Of Music

NEW YORK (AP) — Like many young musicians, Ronald Zalkind had the dream of becoming a concert pianist. He would work hard, get the breaks, and end up as a world-acclaimed soloist.

That dream sustained him through 17 years of piano lessons, bachelor's and master's degree programs at Juilliard School of Music and several years of performance and directing with symphonic ensembles in New York.

"I was past 20 when I really went through a crisis," Zalkind recalled. "I realized it was a mistake to pursue a professional music career. I was not a musician. I didn't have the sensitivity."

After casting around for several years and writing a book ("It will never be published, but it got a lot of bitterness out of my system"), Zalkind found another dream. At 28, he has borrowed $25,000 and set out to make it come true.

Zalkind has started a school not about the aesthetics of music but the business of music. He wants to teach others with dreams of music careers how to survive in the "entertainment jungle."

After newspaper and radio advertisements announced its advent, more than 300 people enrolled for the nine initial courses at the Zalcod Institute for Practical Learning. The name, he said, "was an attempt to find something like Kodak or Xerox, something unique so I could get a trademark."

Classes on topics from concert production to contracts and fund raising began Sept. 26.

Zalkind says many of the new students responded to a pamphlet distributed at record and sheet music stores in the area. It read: "There are at least a thousand ways to fail in the music business ... We want to help you avoid them."

In addition to guiding would-be performers, "the school also will make musicians aware that alternative music careers exist," Zalkind said. "This kind of information just isn't available in music schools, even schools like Juilliard."

Lawyers, engineers, concert promoters, salesmen and media personalities have been hired to teach in rooms rented at an East Side community house. But Zalkind has reserved the overview course — the Business of Music: A Basic Course in Survival — for himself.

Similar to a course he taught earlier at New York University and the New School for Social Research in New York, the basic course reflects what Zalkind deduced in his quest for a piano career.

Orient To Get Federal Funds For Employees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state Controlling Board authorized the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation Tuesday to spend an additional $5 million in federal funds this year in an effort to upgrade institutions for the retarded.

The action by the controllers came after approval last month of a bill that changed the state's method for reimbursing Medicaid providers at mental institutions.

Under the new formula, based on current actual costs of services, the state became eligible for an additional $8 million to $10 million in federal Medicaid money over the next two years.

The control board approved expenditures of $5 million of those funds for the current fiscal year.

Gov. James A. Rhodes said the new federal funding should "bring all Ohio mental institutions up to the staffing standards of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals within one and a half years."

About $3 million of the funds will go toward hiring 1,235 new employees primarily at Orient State Institute, Mount Vernon State Institute, Gallipolis State Institute, and Columbus State Institute, all facilities of the mentally retarded.

The remaining money will go to maintain staff levels that otherwise would drop due to attrition in extended care facilities for the mentally ill at Athens, Tiffin, Longview, Massillon, Cambridge, Toledo and the Central Ohio Psychiatric Hospital, in Columbus.

PAB Linked To Cancer Of Bladder

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Exposure to a chemical used in making synthetic rubber caused bladder cancer in 36 employees of Monsanto chemical company, according to a Monsanto spokesman.

The Tuesday announcement followed a search of Monsanto records, said spokesman Barney Wander.

The search was sparked by a report in a Charleston newspaper that six Monsanto workers died because of exposure to the chemical, para aminobiphenyl, Wander said. He confirmed the six deaths Tuesday, The Gazette said.

PAB was produced at the company's Nitro plant near here until 1955, when the hazards of the substance were discovered, said Wander, who is based in St. Louis.

PAB production was immediately stopped and 227 men were placed in a medical screening program, Wander said. Of those, 155 still receive twice-yearly medical checks for signs of bladder cancer, Wander said.

The Gazette also reported that veteran Monsanto workers believed as many as 12 of their fellow workers have died from PAB exposure.

USDA Preparing Crop Estimates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is preparing new estimates of 1977 corn and other crop production which will have an important bearing on consumer food prices and federal programs affecting farmers in the coming year.

The report, based on surveys Oct. 1, also includes production estimates for soybeans and cotton.

A month ago USDA estimated corn production at a record of 6.23 billion bushels, just edging the 1976 harvest of 6.22 billion bushels. Soybean production as of Sept. 1 was put at a record of 1.64 billion bushels, up 30 per cent from last year.

Although farmers in some major production areas have been delayed in this fall's harvest by wet weather, recent reports indicate that as of early October about 24 per cent of the corn was harvested, compared with 20 per cent at the same time a year ago. The soybean harvest, however, lagged at about half of last year's rate.

The report, scheduled for release this afternoon, also includes new estimates for spring-planted wheat, providing an overall revised figure for total 1977 wheat output. Most of the wheat, however, was of the winter variety and already has been harvested.

Last month the all-wheat estimate was 2.03 billion bushels, compared with about 2.15 billion in 1976 and 2.14 billion bushels in 1975.

Huge supplies of corn and wheat have helped cool food prices by providing cheaper feed for cattle, hogs, poultry and dairy animals. But this has meant hardship for many grain farmers and problems for Carter administration farm officials, who are seeing the largest surpluses since the early 1960s.

The administration last month announced wheat acreage cutbacks for 1978, including a 20 per cent acreage set-aside requirement for those who want to get full government price support benefits.

A 10 per cent feed grain set-aside for 1978 has been under consideration and may be announced in a few days following the new crop report.

The report also includes the first estimates of 1977-78 citrus production and the first estimate of this year's fall potato crop, which makes up most of the U.S. potato supply.

Crops already harvested in 1977 which will not be revised in the October report include oats, barley, winter wheat, rye, peaches, pears and apricots.

Former Musician Teaching Business Of Music

NEW YORK (AP) — Like many young musicians, Ronald Zalkind had the dream of becoming a concert pianist. He would work hard, get the breaks, and end up as a world-acclaimed soloist.

That dream sustained him through 17 years of piano lessons, bachelor's and master's degree programs at Juilliard School of Music and several years of performance and directing with symphonic ensembles in New York.

"I was past 20 when I really went through a crisis," Zalkind recalled. "I realized it was a mistake to pursue a professional music career. I was not a musician. I didn't have the sensitivity."

After casting around for several years and writing a book ("It will never be published, but it got a lot of bitterness out of my system"), Zalkind found another dream. At 28, he has borrowed $25,000 and set out to make it come true.

Zalkind has started a school not about the aesthetics of music but the business of music. He wants to teach others with dreams of music careers how to survive in the "entertainment jungle."

After newspaper and radio advertisements announced its advent, more than 300 people enrolled for the nine initial courses at the Zalcod Institute for Practical Learning. The name, he said, "was an attempt to find something like Kodak or Xerox, something unique so I could get a trademark."

Classes on topics from concert production to contracts and fund raising began Sept. 26.

Zalkind says many of the new students responded to a pamphlet distributed at record and sheet music stores in the area. It read: "There are at least a thousand ways to fail in the music business... We want to help you avoid them."

In addition to guiding would-be performers, "the school also will make musicians aware that alternative music careers exist," Zalkind said. "This kind of information just isn't available in music schools, even schools like Juilliard."

Lawyers, engineers, concert promoters, salesmen and media personalities have been hired to teach in rooms rented at an East Side community house. But Zalkind has reserved the overview course — the Business of Music: A Basic Course in Survival — for himself.

Similar to a course he taught earlier at New York University and the New School for Social Research in New York, the basic course reflects what Zalkind deduced in his quest for a piano career.

The courses range in price from $75 to $140, with the nine-course package available for $660 in fees.

Course literature promises that students will learn to deal with managers and agents, promote demonstration tapes, negotiate contracts, copyright material, and, best of all, "get someone to actually do something for you in the business."

Students Look At Vocational School Life

By KIM DENNEY
An interview with Ralph C. Neal, director of the Pickaway-Ross Vocational Center, and with some of the students reveals what vocational school life is like. The vocational school is located at Route 1, Chillicothe, and is open to eleven different school districts.

Neal said one of the ways the school is different from other schools is the schedules. A student has to take 4½ hours of skill work. There are no athletics or band, but a student can participate in these at his/her home school. When asked what he thought of student cooperation, Neal answered, "Yes, they make new friends." He also felt the school helps the students to prepare for a better future. As an example, last year there were 327 students at the school, and out of these, 212 have gotten jobs this year. It was stated by Mr. Neal that after about the first week of school, the students become very interested in school and the spirit of the students is great.

By talking to some of the students, interesting comments concerning the school were received. John Dilly feels he has good contact with his home school and says, "They try to keep in pretty good contact." Steve Kerns felt there was no contact at all.

Many of the students stated that the vocational school is definitely helping their future.

"They have top equipment and even clubs the students can be in," said Teresa Newman, who felt the school was the best thing for a student if they weren't going to college. Most of the students like the school and feel that it is very rewarding.

The purpose of the school is give high school students the educational background and training necessary to

Logan Elm Journalism classes will be going on the air. Two students from Tribe Talk and Elm Log will be alternating every Thursday, beginning October 13, at 7 - 9 p.m. to broadcast school news on WNRE Radio.

Science Class Based On Experiments

By TIM COLLINS
John Corcoran, science teacher at Logan Elm, reports that the school has introduced a new addition to the science curriculum on the ninth grade level. This new science class is based on the technique of experimentation.

Each individual student keeps his own record book in which he collects the data from various experiments he performs. He then draws conclusions from this data and discovers certain principles about any of six major subjects. "In Orbit," "Winds and Weather," "Investigating Variation," "Why You're You," "Crusty Problems," and "Environmental Science" are the new discovery topics that will be offered.

Library Books Purchased With Stout Memorial

By JEFF BLOOMFIELD
New library books were purchased at Logan Elm. Money to purchase the books was donated by the teaching staff and Ruth Stout Memorial Fund. Three hundred books were bought for special education, kindergarten and the junior high students.

The Ruth Stout Memorial Fund was created for students because of the love Miss Stout had for them.

Counselor Explains Scholastic Tests

Butch Kobel, guidance director at Logan Elm High School, has announced that sophomores, juniors, and some seniors will be able to join over one million other students around the world in taking the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test-National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT-NMSQT) this fall. The test, cosponsored by the College Board and National Merit Scholarship Corporation, is an important step in making college plans.

Scheduled for Oct. 22, at Logan Elm, the PSAT-NMSQT measures verbal and mathematical aptitude—two abilities important in doing college work. The test can also lead to other opportunities for high school students. For example, students can ask to participate in the College Board's Student Service which provides their names to colleges interested in students like them.

By taking the PSAT-NMSQT, they can enter the competition for scholarships administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and can get a good idea of what the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) is like.

Along with their score reports, students will receive a copy of About Your PSAT-NMSQT Scores, a booklet that contains valuable how-to information about: 1. Estimating SAT scores; 2. Finding out where to get and how to use more detailed information about colleges and financial aid; and 3. Planning for financing a college education.

Also, by using the 1977 edition of the College Board's College Handbook, students can compare their scores with those of enrolled students at more than 2,800 colleges and universities listed. In addition, NMSC makes it possible for all regionally accredited U.S. colleges and universities to receive home addresses for Commended Students, on a cost basis, so that an institution may contact any of these promising young men and women directly. It is hoped that recognition of the Commended Students in each year's Merit Program will serve as an encouragement to able youth and will assist them in obtaining whatever information and assistance they may need to pursue their educational plans.

ATTENDING MINI CLASSES — These four students from Logan Elm attended Ohio State University for a Youth and Science Trip. They are Brent Gifford, Michael Ebert, Kim Hayslip and Carl DeBruin.

Her feelings about leaving Springfield were mixed. She was looking forward to meeting new people, but felt sorry to leave her old ones.

Tami's hobbies include horseback riding, swimming, and softball. She intends to try out for basketball, softball, track, and possibly cheerleader. Tami was chosen as the 1977 sophomore homecoming attendant.

Basketball Team Begins Practice

By TERRY WRIGHT

As the 1977 football season nears the halfway point a lot of people are beginning to think about the upcoming basketball season. There has been some question as to the fall training program being legal.

Fall conditioning for Logan Elm basketball players was started on Sept. 12 and will be held for three nights a week until Oct. 28 when mandatory practice will begin.

According to the rules, "There will be no organized or formal basketball practice for a team or part of a team for schools prior to the period beginning the last Friday in October."

Mid State League rules state that, "only sports in season as determined by the board of education are permitted to practice." An out of season coach may not teach fundamentals or require formal or informal practice.

Frosh Take Test

By JEFF DAVIS

Logan Elm freshmen took the GATB Test on the days of Oct. 4, 5 and 6. Testing consisted of two groups a day with 40 people per section. Morning sessions started at 8 a.m. and afternoon sessions began at noon. Three supervisors, Butch Kobel, Clayton Strahr and Doynne Wiggins, were required to administer the test.

General Aptitude Test Battery is a multiple aptitude test in which the basic purpose is to identify and measure abilities that relate to success in various occupations. Aptitude is the ability to perform a motor and mental task successfully.

Possible ways in which the GATB may assist students and others are as follows: 1. Develop greater self-understanding; 2. Develop an understanding of possible aptitude strengths; 3. Students Look At Vocational School Life

By KIM DENNEY
An interview with Ralph C. Neal, director of the Pickaway-Ross Vocational Center, and with some of the students reveals what vocational school life is like. The vocational school is located at Route 1, Chillicothe, and is open to eleven different school districts.

Neal said one of the ways the school is different from other schools is the schedules. A student has to take 4½ hours of skill work. There are no athletics or band, but a student can participate in these at his/her home school. When asked what he thought of student cooperation, Neal answered, "Yes, they make new friends." He also felt the school helps the students to prepare for a better future. As an example, last year there were 327 students at the school, and out of these, 212 have gotten jobs this year. It was stated by Mr. Neal that after about the first week of school, the students become very interested in school and the spirit of the students is great.

By talking to some of the students, interesting comments concerning the school were received. John Dilly feels he has good contact with his home school and says, "They try to keep in pretty good contact." Steve Kerns felt there was no contact at all.

Many of the students stated that the vocational school is definitely helping their future.

"They have top equipment and even clubs the students can be in," said Teresa Newman, who felt the school was the best thing for a student if they weren't going to college. Most of the students like the school and feel that it is very rewarding.

The purpose of the school is give high school students the educational background and training necessary to

News On Radio

By JACKIE GOODE
Logan Elm Journalism classes will be going on the air. Two students from Tribe Talk and Elm Log will be alternating every Thursday, beginning October 13, at 7-9 p.m. to broadcast school news on WNRE Radio.

Bob Bensonhaver, from WNRE Radio, spoke to the journalism classes on Oct. 29 about the possibility of broadcasting school and the surrounding community news.

Science Class Based On Experiments

By TIM COLLINS
John Corcoran, science teacher at Logan Elm, reports that the school has introduced a new addition to the science curriculum on the ninth grade level. This new science class is based on the technique of experimentation.

Each individual student keeps his own record book in which he collects the data from various experiments he performs. He then draws conclusions from this data and discovers certain principles about any of six major subjects. "In Orbit," "Winds and Weather," "Investigating Variation," "Why You're You," "Crusty Problems," and "Environmental Science" are the new discovery topics that will be offered.

Library Books Purchased With Stout Memorial

By JEFF BLOOMFIELD
New library books were purchased at Logan Elm. Money to purchase the books was donated by the teaching staff and Ruth Stout Memorial Fund. Three hundred books were bought for special education, kindergarten and the junior high students.

The Ruth Stout Memorial Fund was created for students because of the love Miss Stout had for them.

Counselor Explains Scholastic Tests

Butch Kobel, guidance director at Logan Elm High School, has announced that sophomores, juniors, and some seniors will be able to join over one million other students around the world in taking the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test-National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT-NMSQT) this fall. The test, cosponsored by the College Board and National Merit Scholarship Corporation, is an important step in making college plans.

Scheduled for Oct. 22, at Logan Elm, the PSAT-NMSQT measures verbal and mathematical aptitude—two abilities important in doing college work. The test can also lead to other opportunities for high school students. For example, students can ask to participate in the College Board's Student Service which provides their names to colleges interested in students like them.

By taking the PSAT-NMSQT, they can enter the competition for scholarships administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and can get a good idea of what the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) is like.

Along with their score reports, students will receive a copy of About Your PSAT-NMSQT Scores, a booklet that contains valuable how-to information about: 1. Estimating SAT scores; 2. Finding out where to get and how to use more detailed information about colleges and financial aid; and 3. Planning for financing a college education.

Also, by using the 1977 edition of the College Board's College Handbook, students can compare their scores with those of enrolled students at more than 2,800 colleges and universities listed. In addition, NMSC makes it possible for all regionally accredited U.S. colleges and universities to receive home addresses for Commended Students, on a cost basis, so that an institution may contact any of these promising young men and women directly. It is hoped that recognition of the Commended Students in each year's Merit Program will serve as an encouragement to able youth and will assist them in obtaining whatever information and assistance they may need to pursue their educational plans.

ATTENDING MINI CLASSES — These four students from Logan Elm attended Ohio State University for a Youth and Science Trip. They are Brent Gifford, Michael Ebert, Kim Hayslip and Carl DeBruin.

New Student Thinks School Is 'Terrific'

TAMI RIEGEL

By TAMMIE WOOTEN
"It's a great school, and the people are terrific!" eagerly replied Tami Riegel, a new student at Logan Elm High this year. Tami is a sophomore and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Riegel. Springfield, Ohio, was her home-base for seven years. Now she resides at 11043 Dingess Road.

Her feelings about leaving Springfield were mixed. She was looking forward to meeting new people, but felt sorry to leave her old ones.

Tami's hobbies include horseback riding, swimming, and softball. She intends to try out for basketball, softball, track, and possibly cheerleader. Tami was chosen as the 1977 sophomore homecoming attendant.

Basketball Team Begins Practice

By TERRY WRIGHT
As the 1977 football season nears the halfway point a lot of people are beginning to think about the upcoming basketball season. There has been some question as to the fall training program being legal.

Fall conditioning for Logan Elm basketball players was started on Sept. 12 and will be held for three nights a week until Oct. 28 when mandatory practice will begin.

According to the rules, "There will be no organized or formal basketball practice for a team or part of a team for schools prior to the period beginning the last Friday in October."

Mid State League rules state that, "only sports in season as determined by the board of education are permitted to practice." An out of season coach may not teach fundamentals or require formal or informal practice.

Frosh Take Test

By JEFF DAVIS
Logan Elm freshmen took the GATB Test on the days of Oct. 4, 5 and 6. Testing consisted of two groups a day with 40 people per section. Morning sessions started at 8 a.m. and afternoon sessions began at noon. Three supervisors, Butch Kobel, Clayton Strahr and Doane Wiggins, were required to administer the test.

General Aptitude Test Battery is a multiple aptitude test in which the basic purpose is to identify and measure abilities that relate to success in various occupations. Aptitude is the ability to perform a motor and mental task successfully.

Possible ways in which the GATB may assist students and others are as follows: 1. Develop greater self-understanding; 2. Develop an understanding of possible aptitude strengths; 3. Can relate test performance to educational and vocational information; 4. May assist students in formulating tentative educational and vocational goals and plans.

Forecast For The Fields

By The Associated Press
Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

Unseasonably cold air continues to flow into Ohio around the back side of an intense early fall low pressure center that is now due north of Ohio over Lake Huron. A cold front associated with the low hurried across the state Tuesday, and is now over eastern Pennsylvania. Skies over Ohio will remain cloudy through much of the day, and additional light rain, possibly mixed with some some flurries in the northern third of the state, is likely. Skies are expected to clear over all but northeastern Ohio during the night, and scattered light frost is possible as surface winds die off and temperatures dip into the mid 30s.

FIELD OPERATIONS — Field delays are expected today, but activities will resume shortly after the rain ends. Rainfall totals from this storm have been light, and soils will firm rapidly after clearing. Evaporative losses from the soil surface will near 0.15 inch Thursday and Friday.

CORN AND SOYBEANS — Corn harvest will resume quickly, and combine weather will be acceptable over all but northeastern Ohio Thursday and Friday. Soybean harvest will be delayed for an additional day or two, and showers may again enter the picture before combines can roll. Weed growth will continue to plague soybean harvest, but the cool temperatures will help complete leaf drop. If temperatures don't fall low enough to kill weeds before harvest, desiccants may be needed.

HAYING AND SEEDING — There will not be enough time after clearing to make another cut of hay. Drying rates will be slow to moderate, but the next storm system will move across Ohio before the curing process can be completed. Fall seeding conditions will be excellent Thursday and Friday. Seeded fields will germinate quickly.

TOBACCO — Cool temperatures may necessitate some heating in tobacco barns. Temperatures near the freezing mark may help drive out additional moisture in stalk and tips. Weather conditions will be nearly ideal for seeding small grain cover crops on harvested fields.

PRUSSIC ACID POISONING — Sudan grass and other types of sorghum that are used for summer pasture can cause Prussic acid poisoning of livestock if the forage is not handled properly after a freeze. If the plants are killed the forage is considered safe to feed after drying for five to six days. If new shoots emerge from the still living portion of the plants, the forage should not be grazed until the new growth reaches a height of two feet.

by threatened school closings. Legislators are particularly concerned over the danger of an imminent shutdown in Cleveland, the state's largest district. A one-time-only deficit spending plan for Cleveland is one option that the panelists will study.

One item is missing from the agenda, however, is the highly-controversial collective bargaining bill for public employees, one step away from final passage, but held in the limbo of a House-Senate Conference Committee.

The sponsor, Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, said Tuesday the next meeting of the conference committee, set for Monday, might be postponed to allow more time for study of the $517 million capital improvements budget.

Little apparent progress has been made in efforts to reach a compromise between House and Senate versions of the bargaining bill, but neither have sharp divisions been apparent, at least among Democratic conferees.

Meshel appears more interested in getting the capital plan ready for a Senate floor vote on Oct. 19 or Oct. 20. The House will also return for a floor meeting on the latter date.

Representatives of Ohio colleges and universities will get a last gasp hearing today before Meshel's Finance subcommittee.

In addition to their efforts to fatten the higher education pork barrel, a $750,000 appropriation already in the bill for the University of Cincinnati, is expected to generate some controversy.

The money is supposed to go toward a feasibility study of building an indoor sports complex on the UC campus, a concept favored by the university's administration.

But representatives of the American Association of University professors, who think teachers' salary increases should be a higher priority, plan to testify against the sports-study.

Frost Warnings Are Issued

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Frost or freeze warnings continued from southeast Nebraska and southwest Iowa through Kansas and Missouri except for the southwest portion into Oklahoma and west Texas.

Storm warnings were posted over western Lake Superior with gale warnings through much of the Great Lakes as winter moves eastward.

Showers were scattered over the Great Lakes. There were snow flurries in parts of Michigan with rain through the central and east portions of the area.

Rainshowers also continued through the southeast from the lower Mississippi valley through the Atlantic coast from Florida to New Jersey.

Lance's Wife To Write Book

CALHOUN, Ga. (AP) — LaBelle Lance, wife of former federal budget director Bert Lance, is signing up to write a book tentatively called "This Too Shall Pass."

Leslie Keylock of Christian Herald Books of Chappaqua, N.Y., said the book is expected to open "with Mrs. Lance's reflections on resignation day, then flash back to her childhood in Calhoun and her first meeting with Mr. Lance and then progress chronologically to the present day."

"Mrs. Lance's life is full of personal tragedies, from the suicide of her brother to some other things not generally known," Keylock said. "The book will touch on these crises in her life and the faith in Jesus Christ that brought her through them."

In another committee room, the Senate Energy and Public Utilities panel will look at complex legislation, approved by the House, to create a powerful, cabinet level Department of Energy.

The bill would also impose a tax on use of coal, based on a sliding scale that would fall heaviest on those using the low sulfur variety from outside Ohio. An amendment to tax industries with self-help natural gas programs is also on the table.

Revenues from both potential taxes would be used to further develop Ohio energy sources and, in the case of the coal-use levy, to help fund the new agency.

In the House, the Energy and Environment Committee opens hearings on a Senate-passed bill designed to improve cooperation between government units in disposal of garbage, and refuse recycling or resource recovery. The legislation is expected to be ready for final action a week from Thursday.

A House Ways and Means subcommittee plans to vote on a bill favored by the Rhodes Administration that would grant industrial tax breaks on new investments in machinery and equipment.

A controversial bill to permit school districts to pay for school operations through a local income tax, rather than property taxes, will also get a hearing.

Entries in the five sections of the Arts and Crafts at the Pumpkin Show are due at the YMCA Building by 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Sterling Poling is the director, with the help of Mrs. Richard Plum, Mrs. James Sutton, Mrs. William Myers, Mrs. Robert A. Jones, Mrs. Royce Woolever and Mrs. Phillip Everett.

Mrs. Poling said that several new categories have been added this year. Toning, which has been deleted for several years, has been reentered into the Crafts Section. Macrame with ceramic pots and ceramics for professionals has also been added to the list. In the Pumpkin Show Fashions, a category devoted to the knit fabrics has been added. Class seven is for the latest faster sewing techniques using knits.

In all areas, bi-centennial classes have been deleted, going back to the traditional entries, Mrs. Poling said.

During the Pumpkin Show, there will be a display of quilts and quilt-making equipment at the YMCA building. Tentatively, demonstrations on the subject are planned two times during the week.

The Pumpkin Show Committee is not liable or responsible for any damage, loss, or harm to any of the projects, although every precaution will be taken to protect the exhibits.

Fruit Consumption Is Up In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Persistent drives to turn consumers away from more and more mouthfuls of processed snacks and other foods that some feel contain unhealthy levels of preservatives and "empty calories" seem to be having an effect on the fruit market.

Fruit as a source of sugar and snacks is a leading guideline of the drives. Last year, the Agriculture Department reports, each American ate an average of 222 pounds of fruit, 9 pounds more than the season before and the highest level of per-capita consumption in three decades.

More than 87 pounds of that was fresh, with bananas, apples and avocados increasing in popularity as citrus fruit dropped 0.6 pound per person.

In Steubenville, he will succeed Bishop John King Mussio, who is retiring at age 75. He has been bishop of the 13-county Steubenville Diocese for 32 years.

No date has been set for Bishop Ottenweller's installation.

Bishop Ottenweller, 61, also is pastor of St. Michael's Church in Findlay.

The announcement was made simultaneously in Washington by Archbishop Jean Jadot, apostolic delegate from the Vatican on behalf of Pope Paul VI.

Bishop Ottenweller was the first auxiliary bishop in the Toledo diocese. He was ordained a bishop May 29, 1974 in Rosary Cathedral in Toledo.

No successor for the Toledo diocese has been announced, Bishop Donovan said.

From 1958 to 1969 he directed the Spanish-speaking apostolate of the Toledo diocese.

At his ordination in May, he characterized himself as "a raw recruit" on whom "God has taken the chance."

Announcement of the new appointment was made in advance of the annual meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops to be held Nov. 14-17 in Washington.

TEACHER IN CHINA — A teacher gives a history lesson in school at a worker's neighborhood in Shanghai. China's leaders are making major changes in the country's educational system which they say was all but wrecked in the ideological disputes of recent years.

Taxpayers Want Wayne Forest Moved Out Of County

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — A taxpayers group in this southeastern Ohio area wants a national forest moved out of Washington County.

A national forest here may be useful in preventing erosion of land, but it is eating away at the county's tax base, members of the Washington County Taxpayers' Association charge.

The 26,711 acres of Wayne National Forest is undermining the schools, Barbara Sutton, executive secretary of the association, said.

The Frontier Local school district, which includes much of the national forest, is scheduled to close Dec. 12 for lack of funds.

The forest only brings the county $18,000 annually, Mrs. Sutton said. Approximately $18,000 to $20,000 in timber and mineral sales and federal reimbursements in lieu of taxes will be paid the county this year.

"If it (Wayne National Forest) doesn't provide a public service for us, then let's be the first county in the United States to say 'We want out,'" she said.

Mrs. Sutton said the drive to get rid of the forest "may take five years" but the association plans to petition Congress and the federal agencies involved to sell the land to private owners.

George Anderson, acting forest supervisor, said it would take an act of Congress to sell any of the forest land. "I guess anything is possible," Anderson said. "I've never seen it done before."

Though Washington County residents may oppose the forest, Anderson said "from the governor right on down" state officials have supported it. He said there is a statewide need for undeveloped forest land for recreation and wildlife conservation.

Anderson also said the 75 cents an acre the forest returns to the county in government payments and timber and mineral sales is as much or more, than it would provide to the county if privately owned.

County Commissioner James Vuksic, who wants to get rid of the forest, said, "Soon you are not going to have a school, you're not going to have any roads, you are not going to have any property. Wayne National Forest is going to take it."

He said the large tracts of forest land prevent development and cause deterioration of roads and schools. People are moving out and selling their land to the forest, he said.

Lillian Carter Suffered For Lance

NEW YORK (AP) — Lillian Carter says she "suffered death" while former Budget Director Bert Lance was under attack in Washington.

"I've known Bert so long and he's such a fine man and I just felt like he was being terribly abused," said the president's mother in a television interview. "It was really a period of weeping and praying for me."

Mrs. Carter's comments came during a one-hour interview for the Public Broadcasting Service's Macneil-Leherer Report.

The program was to air in New York tonight and be distributed nationally to PBS member stations for showing Friday.

Nuclear Power Plant Debated

BERLIN HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP) — The pros and cons of building nuclear power plants are being debated intensely in this Erie County township now that Ohio Edison wants to build a $2 billion nuclear plant here.

Residents are taking sides between hailing the project as a safe way to generate energy and create jobs or criticizing it as a potential hazard.

"You sort of go along thinking that there are people (in government) looking out for you," said Ann Hastings, now a member of the Firelands Coalition for Safe energy, which opposes the plant.

Although she said she never questioned nuclear power before, she now thinks that "we're making a lot of deadly stuff (nuclear waste) and we don't know how to handle it."

Mrs. Hastings said she wants to know more about how low-level radiation might affect birth defects, genetic diseases and cancer. "They don't check the waste water used in the nuclear plant or even the air that circulates through the reactor area and is then released into the atmosphere," she added. "It's incredible to me...the whole thing's ridiculous."

The plant is being built by a group of private utilities which already has built the Davis-Besse nuclear plant near Port Clinton, with the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. taking the lead in that project.

Although the Ohio Power Siting Commission has recommended that the Berlin Heights plant not be built, the commission will not make a final decision until next year.

Berlin Heights farmer Oliver T. Burnham said he doesn't believe the plant will harm the rural area. "A nuclear plant is the least disruptive to the environment of any electricity-generating plant," he said. "The impact of the plant will be minimal since the project will be located in a secluded, marginal area of the township."

Another proponent of the plant is the Rev. J. M. Erhbar, a retired Roman Catholic priest who testified at the most recent Ohio Power Siting Commission hearing on the matter. "Every time people think about nuclear power, they think about Hiroshima and Nagasaki," he said. "I've heard about all these problems, but I don't see it—and my front porch is directly across from the Davis-Besse plant near Port Clinton."

Humphrey Resumes Radiation Treatment

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., has resumed radiation therapy for inoperable cancer of the pelvis, a University of Minnesota Hospitals spokesman said.

After a week's rest, Humphrey resumed radiation therapy Tuesday on an out-patient basis, doctors said. The renewed treatments were expected to last about two weeks.

Dr. John Najarian, chief surgeon at University Hospitals, said the initial three-week series appeared to have reduced the size of the tumor.

Toledo Bus Drivers Return To Work

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Striking bus drivers and mechanics went back to work today, ending a two-day wildcat walkout that forced nearly 65,000 passengers to find other ways to get to their jobs or school.

Representatives of Amalgamated Transit Union Division 697 and officials of the Toledo Area Regional Transit Authority signed an agreement about 3 a.m. to clarify issues that caused the strike.

One hour and 45 minutes later, the first bus rolled out of the TARTA garage as 210 drivers and 44 mechanics began reporting for work.

Union President Ray Jacobs said the major difference between the union and TARTA was over a $1 million pension fund.

"We agreed to clarify the differences we had," Jacobs said. "As of right now, it's all over. It's all straightened out."

Details of the agreement were not released immediately.

The agreement followed lengthy talks that began after drivers refused to comply with a court order to end the walkout before getting certain written guarantees from the TARTA.

On Tuesday, Lucas County Common Pleas Court Judge Francis Pietrykowski issued a restraining order calling for union members to end the strike.

Employees alleged that Charles Whitten, TARTA general manager, failed to abide by an agreement to take up pension plan issues after a new three-year contract was settled July 8.

TARTA officials argued that the strike violates the union's contract with the company and filed a lawsuit Tuesday asking for an immediate temporary restraining order and subsequent injunction to end the strike.

Downtown employers Tuesday said absences were few as employees who normally ride the bus seemed to have found alternate transportation.

School officials reported above average absences in high schools, but normal attendance in elementaries. The school system depends heavily on the city buses to transport students. About 20,000 pupils have bus passes allowing them to ride to and from school free.

TARTA officials said about 65,000 persons normally ride the buses daily.

Scratch And Sniff Cards Mailed To Gas Customers

A special "scratch and sniff" card is being mailed with all Columbia Gas bills this month to alert customers and members of their families to the peculiar odor of natural gas.

Each card is impregnated with a small amount of mercaptan — the chemical agent added to otherwise odorless natural gas to make it smell. Scratching the card releases the odor.

The gas company adds mercaptan to its gas as a means of detecting leaking gas and urges each family member — especially children — to scratch the card and to become familiar with the smell of gas.

A gas company spokesman said the company normally experiences an increase in "gas leak calls" when the "scratch and sniff" cards are mailed.

Amy Carter Practicing

DORADO, Puerto Rico (AP) — First Lady Rosalynn Carter said Tuesday she and 8-year-old daughter, Amy, have been practicing "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star" on the violin — not "Three Blind Mice" as her press secretary reported last week.

After addressing the United Press International editors conference here, Mrs. Carter said the violin teacher had received several complaints about her teaching method after the "Three Blind Mice" story appeared.

It seems that the way to teach beginners the violin is with "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star," Mrs. Carter said.

Mrs. Carter said Amy practices her violin 12 times daily, in addition to photography and Spanish lessons.

Firm Incorporates

Articles of incorporation have been filed in Columbus with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown by A to Z Alarms Inc., Orient.

The incorporators are James Elroy Damron and David Lewis La Rue. La Rue, of Orient, is the agent.

He indicated many are legitimate calls from customers who actually have a gas leak.

But, he also pointed out that often someone gets a whiff of the odorant from the flyer and, not recognizing its source, calls the gas company to report a gas leak. He said careful handling of the card in the home would help eliminate unnecessary calls.

Distribution of "scratch and sniff" cards is one of several safety programs conducted by Columbia to assure good service to its customers.

Taxpayers Want Wayne Forest Moved Out Of County

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — A taxpayers group in this southeastern Ohio area wants a national forest moved out of Washington County.

A national forest here may be useful in preventing erosion of land, but it is eating away at the county's tax base, members of the Washington County Taxpayers' Association charge.

The 26,711 acres of Wayne National Forest is undermining the schools, Barbara Sutton, executive secretary of the association, said.

The Frontier Local school district, which includes much of the national forest, is scheduled to close Dec. 12 for lack of funds.

The forest only brings the county $18,000 annually, Mrs. Sutton said. Approximately $18,000 to $20,000 in timber and mineral sales and federal reimbursements in lieu of taxes will be paid the county this year.

"If it (Wayne National Forest) doesn't provide a public service for us, then let's be the first county in the United States to say 'We want out,'" she said.

Mrs. Sutton said the drive to get rid of the forest "may take five years" but the association plans to petition Congress and the federal agencies involved to sell the land to private owners.

George Anderson, acting forest supervisor, said it would take an act of Congress to sell any of the forest land.

"I guess anything is possible," Anderson said. "I've never seen it done before."

Though Washington County residents may oppose the forest, Anderson said "from the governor right on down" state officials have supported it. He said there is a statewide need for undeveloped forest land for recreation and wildlife conservation.

Anderson also said the 75 cents an acre the forest returns to the county in government payments and timber and mineral sales is as much or more, than it would provide to the county if privately owned.

County Commissioner James Vuksic, who wants to get rid of the forest, said, "Soon you are not going to have a school, you're not going to have any roads, you are not going to have any property. Wayne National Forest is going to take it."

He said the large tracts of forest land prevent development and cause deterioration of roads and schools. People are moving out and selling their land to the forest, he said.

Lillian Carter Suffered For Lance

NEW YORK (AP) — Lillian Carter says she "suffered death" while former Budget Director Bert Lance was under attack in Washington.

"I've known Bert so long and he's such a fine man and I just felt like he was being terribly abused," said the president's mother in a television interview. "It was really a period of weeping and praying for me."

Mrs. Carter's comments came during a one-hour interview for the Public Broadcasting Service's Macneil-Leherer Report.

The program was to air in New York tonight and be distributed nationally to PBS member stations for showing Friday.

Nuclear Power Plant Debated

BERLIN HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP) — The pros and cons of building nuclear power plants are being debated intensely in this Erie County township now that Ohio Edison wants to build a $2 billion nuclear plant here.

Residents are taking sides between hailing the project as a safe way to generate energy and create jobs or criticizing it as a potential hazard.

"You sort of go along thinking that there are people (in government) looking out for you," said Ann Hastings, now a member of the Firelands Coalition for Safe energy, which opposes the plant.

Although she said she never questioned nuclear power before, she now thinks that "we're making a lot of deadly stuff (nuclear waste) and we don't know how to handle it."

Mrs. Hastings said she wants to know more about how low-level radiation might affect birth defects, genetic diseases and cancer. "They don't check the waste water used in the nuclear plant or even the air that circulates through the reactor area and is then released into the atmosphere," she added. "It's incredible to me...the whole thing's ridiculous."

The plant is being built by a group of private utilities which already has built the Davis-Besse nuclear plant near Port Clinton, with the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. taking the lead in that project.

Although the Ohio Power Siting Commission has recommended that the Berlin Heights plant not be built, the commission will not make a final decision until next year.

Berlin Heights farmer Oliver T. Burnham said he doesn't believe the plant will harm the rural area. "A nuclear plant is the least disruptive to the environment of any electricity-generating plant," he said. "The impact of the plant would be minimal since the project will be located in a secluded, marginal area of the township."

Another proponent of the plant is the Rev. J. M. Erhbar, a retired Roman Catholic priest who testified at the most recent Ohio Power Siting Commission hearing on the matter.

"Every time people think about nuclear power, they think about Hiroshima and Nagasaki," he said. "I've heard about all these problems, but I don't see it—and my front porch is directly across from the Davis-Besse plant near Port Clinton."

Humphrey Resumes Radiation Treatment

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., has resumed radiation therapy for inoperable cancer of the pelvis, a University of Minnesota Hospitals spokesman said.

After a week's rest, Humphrey resumed radiation therapy Tuesday on an out-patient basis, doctors said. The renewed treatments were expected to last about two weeks.

Dr. John Najarian, chief surgeon at University Hospitals, said the initial three-week series appeared to have reduced the size of the tumor.

Toledo Bus Drivers Return To Work

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Striking bus drivers and mechanics went back to work today, ending a two-day wildcat walkout that forced nearly 65,000 passengers to find other ways to get to their jobs or school.

Representatives of Amalgamated Transit Union Division 697 and officials of the Toledo Area Regional Transit Authority signed an agreement about 3 a.m. to clarify issues that caused the strike.

One hour and 45 minutes later, the first bus rolled out of the TARTA garage as 210 drivers and 44 mechanics began reporting for work.

Union President Ray Jacobs said the major difference between the union and TARTA was over a $1 million pension fund.

"We agreed to clarify the differences we had," Jacobs said. "As of right now, it's all over. It's all straightened out."

Details of the agreement were not released immediately.

The agreement followed lengthy talks that began after drivers refused to comply with a court order to end the walkout before getting certain written guarantees from the TARTA.

On Tuesday, Lucas County Common Pleas Court Judge Francis Pietrykowski issued a restraining order calling for union members to end the strike.

Employees alleged that Charles Whitten, TARTA general manager, failed to abide by an agreement to take up pension plan issues after a new three-year contract was settled July 8.

TARTA officials argued that the strike violates the union's contract with the company and filed a lawsuit Tuesday asking for an immediate temporary restraining order and subsequent injunction to end the strike.

Downtown employers Tuesday said absences were few as employees who normally ride the bus seemed to have found alternate transportation.

School officials reported above average absences in high schools, but normal attendance in elementary schools. The school system depends heavily on the city buses to transport students. About 20,000 pupils have bus passes allowing them to ride to and from school free.

TARTA officials said about 65,000 persons normally ride the buses daily.

Braves, Mustangs Ready For Action

The Logan Elm Braves and the Westfall Mustangs head into the second half of the 1977 football campaign this Friday and Saturday.

The Mustang's opponent this Friday will be the Southeastern Panthers, who travel to the Mustangs' corral.

The Ross County squad is 1-4 on the season, but Westfall coach John Glanton says the Mustangs have played some good football teams.

"Their offense isn't their strong point," said Glanton. They don't have anyone you could list as really outstanding, although they are pretty steady players."

The Panthers run the offense from the power and slot I formations. On defense the Mustangs will see the 5-0 and 6-2.

Glanton sees his team's biggest problem as getting everyone ready to play. "We have been slow to get started in our last few games, and I'd like to see us come out and play good ball right from the start," he said.

In speaking of last week's players and that big win over Zane Trace, the Mustang staff had high praise for quarterback Jerry Mowery and for the entire offensive line. In Glanton's estimation, the men in the trenches played probably their finest game of the season.

"Our specialty teams have also been giving us a good performance each time out," the coach said. Kevin Thompson especially has been breaking open on some real good returns."

Kickoff in Westfall Stadium is set for

8 p.m.

The Logan Elm Braves play in a Saturday night game at Liberty Union against the Lions.

"We have to stop the pass," said LE coach Bill Frost when asked about the Lions. "They have a good young sophomore quarterback, and he has a good arm. He passed for 112 yards against Amanda."

Like his counterpart at Westfall, Frost feels that his charges have not been playing in the early going as well as they should be. "We are sluggish on defense," he said, "and our biggest thing this week will be to get everyone mentally ready to play. I'd like to see us play early in the game the way we have been playing late in the game."

The Braves will go with the same offensive personnel, but some changes may be seen on defense. Jeff Seimer will go at one guard spot, and Cliff Hoover will go at an end, and Carl DeBruin will fill in for Hoover at tackle.

In speaking of last week's homecoming win over Fairfield Union, Frost said he was very satisfied with the offensive performance. The Braves picked up yardage and first downs when they needed to.

Coming in for praise from the coaching staff was the interior of the line — Brent Gifford at center, Gary Weaver at one guard, and Lynn "Willard" Strehle at the other.

The kickoff at Liberty Union Stadium will be at 8 p.m.

Bullpen Is 'The Castle Of The Rescue Kings'

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent

Albert Walter Lyle is a man whose baseball life is spent sitting beside the telephone.

The telephone rang late Tuesday night. Left-hander Don Gullett had throttled the Los Angeles Dodgers for 8 1-3 innings. The Yankees were sitting on a precarious 3-2 lead, needing two outs to win the opening game of the World Series.

Ding-a-ling.

"Get the Count out there," came the urgent call from the New York dugout to the little blue-roofed shed just over the 430-foot sign that serves as the bullpen.

The bullpen — once the haven of tired arms, the "hasbeens" and "never-wases." No more. In modern baseball, it has become the castle of the rescue kings.

Now the house was on fire. Yankee Stadium's concrete facade was threatening to crumble. Water was pouring through the dikes. The Russians were piling over the reefs at Montauk Point.

The pin-striped Toyota rolls out of left-center field with its distinguished passenger, the man they call "Sparky," and makes the 330-foot drive to the edge of the infield.

There is a tremendous roar. A wave of relief envelopes Yankee fans everywhere.

It was a short ride that Sparky has made more than any other man: in 72 of the 162 regular season games this year, in four of the five American League playoff tests, now in the first game of the World Series.

It is a scene with which the baseball fan has become eminently familiar.

Lyle steps from the shuttle car with an air of arrogance. There is a swagger about his walk, a confident tilt to his head.

He tips his blue cap to the huge Stadium crowd of 56,668. There is a thundering roar. Millions watch on television.

It is like a scene out of a movie thriller. Sparky, called "The Count" by his teammates because of his rakish mustache and hair that falls deep onto his neck — it once was much longer — gives a gesture to second baseman Willie Randolph.

It's as if to say, "Relax, everything's in hand."

Grid Players Of The Week

By The Associated Press

BACK — James Mayberry, fullback, Colorado, rushed for 250 yards, third best in Colorado history, on just 24 carries and scored one touchdown as the Buffs defeated Oklahoma State 29-13. He galloped 70 yards to set up his one-yard scoring plunge and had runs of 12 and 26 yards during the clinching touchdown drive.

LINEMAN — Jerry Sheehan, linebacker, Virginia Tech, was credited with 19 tackles, 12 assists, two fumble recoveries and a deflected pass as the Gobblers defeated William & Mary 17-8 and ended a sixgame losing streak dating back to last season.

Yankees Edge Dodgers In 12 Innings

NEW YORK (AP) — Two left-handers, one who can pitch every day and one whose season was supposed to be over, provided the hurling heroics, while a defensive specialist and a punch 'n Judy hitter provided the important offense as the New York Yankees finally won their 100th World Series game.

It took 13 years and 12 action-packed innings Tuesday night before the Yankees reached the century mark, outlasting the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3.

"It feels wonderful," decided Yankee Manager Billy Martin, who managed his first World Series winner after four losing games, against Cincinnati last year.

Last year, Cincinnati had left-hander Don Gullett, while this year the Yankees have him. The hard-throwing Gullett, an off-season free agent acquisition by the Yankees, was yanked after two innings last Wednesday in the American League playoffs because of a sore shoulder. At the time, Martin said Gullett was finished for the season.

But that was no mirage on the mound Tuesday night. It was Don Gullett, who combined with ironman Sparky Lyle to finish off the Dodgers, allowing the National League champions just six hits all night.

"The difference between the playoffs and tonight was that I was throwing the ball 10 or 15 miles an hour faster," said Gullett, who was given a pain-killing cortisone shot after his poor performance a week ago. "Even though I had trouble in the first inning, I had enough confidence in my stuff to know I would corral it sooner or later."

Lyle, who always has confidence in his stuff, checked the Dodgers on one hit for the last 3 2-3 innings to gain his third straight postseason victory. His winning relief stints Saturday and Sunday carried the Yankees into the World Series.

"My arm feels good right now," said

Lyle, who has pitched 13 2-3 innings in relief since postseason play began for the Yankees last Wednesday. "I definitely can go tomorrow — I mean if he needs me."

Lyle didn't have to pitch all night because Paul Blair, a brilliant outfielder inserted for Reggie Jackson in the ninth inning, stroked a two-strike single past short in the 12th, scoring the fleet Willie Randolph with the winning run.

In the sixth inning, Randolph had turned from speedster to power hitter, socking his first home run since July 12 (274 at bats) to tie the game at 2-2.

Blair, a beanball victim earlier in his career, still carries the psychological scars and ducks away from right-handed pitchers. But his clutch single in the 12th came off right-handed reliever Rick Rhoden, the fifth Los Angeles pitcher. He also singled off Kansas City right-hander Dennis Leonard Sunday, launching the Yankees' ninth-inning, pennant-winning rally.

Blair's game-winner came after he had failed to lay down successful sacrifice bunts in the 10th and 12th innings. "I was disappointed that I didn't get the bat down really good when I was trying to bunt," Blair said.

Randolph, the Yankees' 23-year-old All-Star second baseman, was the New York power hitter Tuesday night, stealing the thunder from sluggers Jackson, Graig Nettles and Chris Chambliss, who remain in dismal slumps. None of them has an extra-base hit in postseason play.

"All year I've been in the background, so this feels great," said the quiet Randolph, who had only four homers in the regular season. "But I'm not really a home run hitter and I don't look to hit the long ball. I just go up there and try to be aggressive."

Randolph has a chance to continue his hot hitting while the real Yankee home run threats hope to wake up their bats tonight in Game 2, when New York's Catfish Hunter pitches against Burt Hooton in a battle of right-handers.

Hunter, sidelined since Sept. 10 because of a urological disorder, may be well rested.

"I threw twice in the bullpen during the playoffs and I feel fine," said Hunter. "I'm too dumb to be scared, but I did call my son and told him be sure and watch the first inning so he won't miss anything."

The Yankee Stadium crowd of 56,668 — largest of the season — and a national television audience sure saw something Tuesday night in a match of historic rivalry between Dodger Blue and Yankee Pinstripes.

Bill Russell's run-scoring triple and Ron Cey's sacrifice fly sent the Dodgers out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning, but Gullett, calmed down by Martin and catcher Thurman Munson, then snuffed out the rally.

"I knew he was throwing the ball real hard," said Martin. "I just went out there to calm him down. His throwing was sensational. I'm very proud of him." Munson was also in on the mound meeting. "He told me if we get this guy out, someone's in trouble the rest of the game," Munson related. "Don Gullett's a great competitor."

So is Munson, whose RBI single in the first was his sixth straight World Series hit dating back to the 1976 Series.

The Yankee captain also stroked an RBI double down the left-field line in the eighth, giving the Yankees a 3-2 lead, which didn't last long. Lee Lacy's one-out pinch-hit single off Lyle in the ninth chased home Dusty Baker and sent the game into extra innings.

Munson was also involved in the game's most controversial play, a sixth-inning tag play, with center fielder Mickey Rivers' throw beating Steve Garvey to the plate.

"The ball beat him," said Munson.

The Dodgers didn't agree. "It looked like the umpire (Nestor Chylak) was on the wrong side of the plate when he made the call," said Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda. "Steve thought he was safe and so did I. But that doesn't matter. We have to think about tomorrow."

CHS Boosters Will Meet

The Circleville High School Athletic Booster Club will hold its regular meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Head football coach Larry Cook will discuss last week's win over Greenfield and show the films of that game. The final plans for the Pumpkin Show booth will be made.

The public is cordially invited to attend, and refreshments will be served.

Brave Spikers Crush Picktown

By TOM SPRING
Herald Sports Writer

As Logan Elm Brave coach Linda Vaughn walked out of the gym during Tuesday night's reserve game for a pregame conference with the varsity squad, she confided, "We're really up for this one."

"This one" could well be the one for the marbles. Visiting Pickerington and

Logan Elm both entered the contest with undefeated records as did both of the reserve squads, with three contests to go in Mid State League competition.

The first match began to look like a runaway as Logan Elm pulled ahead quickly, 8-3. But the Bulldogs came back even and serves switched dozens of times in a game that looked as if it might go on forever. Finally, Picktown pulled out the two-point gap and won 16-18.

The Braves weren't undaunted, however. Talk about being up. Logan Elm's Abby Rife placed 13 straight serves (one on a replay) as the Braves zapped the Bulldogs 15-4 in the second game.

The final game was even better, 15-0. The win gave Logan Elm undisputed first place, with a 6-0 Mid State record. Pickerington dropped its first league match.

When asked how the Braves turned around so quickly and dramatically after the first game, Vaughn said, "Beats the heck out of me!" Then, explaining succinctly, she said, "We don't like to lose."

Indeed, they don't. Earlier this year, they beat Millersport after falling behind 3-14.

Coach Vaughn said, "The girls played a coordinated thinking game as well as a skills game. Their attitude is a sincere desire to go as far as they can. They practice hard and work as a team and that's what makes it click."

The coach and girls emphasize the positive in practice and games. No negative words are spoken; only positive reinforcement is given among teammates and between coach and teammates. It must be working.

Diane Martin was the outstanding player of the match as she served 13 perfect serves in as many tries, made seven of seven bump attempts, set the ball 10 of 11 times and spiked the ball on eight of nine occasions.

Abby Rife made 15 of 17 serves including 12 straight. She was 11 of 12 on bumps and had four perfect spikes.

Krista Gifford was 100 percent on 10 bumps and four spikes and made 10 of 12 serves.

Beth Bell was perfect in 26 set attempts, as was Diane Weaver in 18 sets and 12 bumps.

Susan Delong made 13 of 14 spikes.

In the reserve contest, the Braves went down to their first defeat while Pickerington remained undefeated. Logan Elm lost 8-15, 15-11, 5-15.

Tammy Wooten made 26 of 28 bump attempts; Lisa Rife made 15 of 16 bump attempts and seven of nine serves; Nancy Archer connected on nine of 11 serves and Linda Jacobs made three perfect spikes.

County Fans have a real treat in store for them tonight as the Circleville Tigers put their 7-1 record on the line at Logan Elm, which is 8-0 overall.

Both reserve squads are 8-0.

The reserve match has been moved up to a 7:30 p.m. starting time with the varsity match following.

Wilmington Band Club To Hold Supper

The Wilmington High School Band Club is sponsoring a chili and hot dog supper this Friday preceding the Wilmington-Circleville football game.

The supper will be served from 4:30 p.m. until 7:30 p.m. in the Wilmington High School Cafeteria. Tickets will be sold at the door.

The menu will include chili or hot dogs, salad, beverage, and pie or cake.

Catfish Hunter To Start

NEW YORK (AP) — With sore-shouldered Don Gullett having affected a miracle cure for the opening game of the World Series, the pitching-short New York Yankees are keeping their fingers crossed and turning tonight's second-game assignment over to a seldom-used right-hander also beset by an assortment of miseries.

But this pitcher, who hasn't thrown a ball in anger in more than a month, who didn't appear at all during the American League playoffs and who was ineffective during most of the regular season, just happens to be one of the premier hurlers in baseball history.

Surely you remember James Augustus "Catfish" Hunter.

"I just called my little boy and told him to watch the first inning so he could see me," said Catfish Hunter, only the fourth pitcher in this century — the others were Cy Young, Christy Mathewson and Walter Johnson — to record his 200th victory before his 31st birthday.

"I don't know how far I can go, but Billy (Manager Billy Martin) should have somebody ready from the fourth inning on," said Catfish Hunter, one of only three American Leaguers — the others are Johnson and Lefty Grove — to be a 20-game winner in five consecutive seasons.

"Billy told me something on the plane ride home from Kansas City about me starting either the second or third game," said Catfish Hunter, eight times a member of the AL All-Star team, winner of the Cy Young Award in 1974 and runnerup in 1975.

Catfish Hunter, owner of a 4-1 record and 2.36 earned run average in four previous World Series, has taken to crying on the inside while making jokes on the outside about his dismal 1977 season — only 22 appearances, a 9-9 won-lost record, 4.71 ERA and 29 home runs in just 143 1-3 innings of work.

This is the pitcher on whom the Yankees are relying in the wake of Tuesday night's 4-3 opening-game triumph behind the six-hit hurling of Gullett and relief ace Sparky Lyle and the hitting of Willie Randolph, Thurman Munson and Paul Blair, who singled home the winning run in the bottom of the 12th inning.

Asked what he expected from Hunter, Martin replied:

"I don't put any innings on him. It all goes according to what my eyes tell me. I had to use two starters the other day (Ron Guidry and Mike Torrez in Game 5 of the playoffs) and another one (Ed Figueroa) has a sore finger."

That is why Hunter gets the call tonight. Gullett was tapped for the opener for much the same reason, even though he had to leave the playoff opener against Kansas City last Wednesday with an aching shoulder after yielding four runs in two innings.

"When a pitcher has arm problems there's really some uncertainty," Gullett said after overcoming a shaky start as the Dodgers took a quick 2-0 lead, then settling down and working 8 1-3 strong innings.

"But I felt physically good and strong warming up and I knew I'd be okay. I told the pitching coaches and I kept shaking my head affirmatively. I'm gonna be the last guy to give up on myself."

When someone asked the 26-year-old left-hander how his arm felt, he replied:

"Someone told me I was throwing at 96 miles an hour; does that answer your question?"

Braves, Mustangs Ready For Action

The Logan Elm Braves and the Westfall Mustangs head into the second half of the 1977 football campaign this Friday and Saturday.

The Mustang's opponent this Friday will be the Southeastern Panthers, who travel to the Mustangs' corral.

The Ross County squad is 1-4 on the season, but Westfall coach John Glanton says the Mustangs have played some good football teams.

"Their offense isn't their strong point," said Glanton. They don't have anyone you could list as really outstanding, although they are pretty steady players."

The Panthers run the offense from the power and slot I formations. On defense the Mustangs will see the 5-0 and 6-2.

Glanton sees his team's biggest problem as getting everyone ready to play. "We have been slow to get started in our last few games, and I'd like to see us come out and play good ball right from the start," he said.

In speaking of last week's players and that big win over Zane Trace, the Mustang staff had high praise for quarterback Jerry Mowery and for the entire offensive line. In Glanton's estimation, the men in the trenches played probably their finest game of the season.

"Our specialty teams have also been giving us a good performance each time out," the coach said. Kevin Thompson especially has been breaking open on some real good returns."

Kickoff in Westfall Stadium is set for

8 p.m.

The Logan Elm Braves play in a Saturday night game at Liberty Union against the Lions.

"We have to stop the pass," said LE coach Bill Frost when asked about the Lions. "They have a good young sophomore quarterback, and he has a good arm. He passed for 112 yards against Amanda."

Like his counterpart at Westfall, Frost feels that his charges have not been playing in the early going as well as they should be. "We are sluggish on defense," he said, "and our biggest thing this week will be to get everyone mentally ready to play. I'd like to see us play early in the game the way we have been playing late in the game."

The Braves will go with the same offensive personnel, but some changes may be seen on defense. Jeff Seimer will go at one guard spot, and Cliff Hoover will go at an end, and Carl DeBruin will fill in for Hoover at tackle.

In speaking of last week's homecoming win over Fiarfield Union, Frost said he was very satisfied with the offensive performance. The Braves picked up yardage and first downs when they needed to.

Coming in for praise from the coaching staff was the interior of the line — Brent Gifford at center, Gary Weaver at one guard, and Lynn "Willard" Strehle at the other.

The kickoff at Liberty Union Stadium will be at 8 p.m.

Bullpen Is 'The Castle Of The Rescue Kings'

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Albert Walter Lyle is a man whose baseball life is spent sitting beside the telephone.

The telephone rang late Tuesday night. Left-hander Don Gullett had throttled the Los Angeles Dodgers for 8 1-3 innings. The Yankees were sitting on a precarious 3-2 lead, needing two outs to win the opening game of the World Series.

Ding-a-ling. "Get the Count out there," came the urgent call from the New York dugout to the little blue-roofed shed just over the 430-foot sign that serves as the bullpen.

The bullpen — once the haven of tired arms, the "hasbeens" and "never-wases." No more. In modern baseball, it has become the castle of the rescue kings.

Now the house was on fire. Yankee Stadium's concrete facade was threatening to crumble. Water was pouring through the dikes. The Russians were piling over the reefs at Montauk Point.

The pin-striped Toyota rolls out of left-center field with its distinguished passenger, the man they call "Sparky," and makes the 330-foot drive to the edge of the infield.

There is a tremendous roar. A wave of relief envelopes Yankee fans everywhere.

It was a short ride that Sparky has made more than any other man: in 72 of the 162 regular season games this year, in four of the five American League playoff tests, now in the first game of the World Series.

It is a scene with which the baseball fan has become eminently familiar. Lyle steps from the shuttle car with an air of arrogance. There is a swagger about his walk, a confident tilt to his head.

He tips his blue cap to the huge Stadium crowd of 56,668. There is a thundering roar. Millions watch on television.

It is like a scene out of a movie thriller. Sparky, called "The Count" by his teammates because of his rakish mustache and hair that falls deep onto his neck — it once was much longer — gives a gesture to second baseman Willie Randolph.

It's as if to say, "Relax, everything's in hand."

He galloped 70 yards to set up his one-yard scoring plunge and had runs of 12 and 26 yards during the clinching touchdown drive.

LINEMAN — Jerry Sheehan, linebacker, Virginia Tech, was credited with 19 tackles, 12 assists, two fumble recoveries and a deflected pass as the Gobblers defeated William & Mary 17-8 and ended a sixgame losing streak dating back to last season.

In the varsity match, the scores were 13-15, 15-6, and 15-4 in favor of the Red and Black.

Defensively, the Tigers were good on 46 of 64 for 72 per cent.

The reserve match score was 15-4, 15-12 for the Red and Black.

Gaining points for the winners were Elisa Frosini, three; Kim Heselton, three; Debbie Morehart, four; Jenny Armstrong, eight; and Kelly McKinney, 12. As a team, the Tigers were good on 38 of 50 for 76 per cent.

Yankees Edge Dodgers In 12 Innings

NEW YORK (AP) — Two left-handers, one who can pitch every day and one whose season was supposed to be over, provided the hurling heroics, while a defensive specialist and a Punch 'n Judy hitter provided the important offense as the New York Yankees finally won their 100th World Series game.

It took 13 years and 12 action-packed innings Tuesday night before the Yankees reached the century mark, outlasting the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3.

"It feels wonderful," decided Yankee Manager Billy Martin, who managed his first World Series winner after four losing games, against Cincinnati last year.

Last year, Cincinnati had left-hander Don Gullett, while this year the Yankees have him. The hard-throwing Gullett, an offseason free agent acquisition by the Yankees, was yanked after two innings last Wednesday in the American League playoffs because of a sore shoulder. At the time, Martin said Gullett was finished for the season.

But that was no mirage on the mound Tuesday night. It was Don Gullett, who combined with ironman Sparky Lyle to finish off the Dodgers, allowing the National League champions just six hits all night.

"The difference between the playoffs and tonight was that I was throwing the ball 10 or 15 miles an hour faster," said Gullett, who was given a pain-killing cortisone shot after his poor performance a week ago. "Even though I had trouble in the first inning, I had enough confidence in my stuff to know I would corral it sooner or later."

Lyle, who always has confidence in his stuff, checked the Dodgers on one hit for the last 3 2-3 innings to gain his third straight postseason victory. His winning relief stints Saturday and Sunday carried the Yankees into the World Series.

"My arm feels good right now," said

Lyle, who has pitched 13 2-3 innings in relief since postseason play began for the Yankees last Wednesday. "I definitely can go tomorrow — I mean if he needs me."

Lyle didn't have to pitch all night because Paul Blair, a brilliant outfielder inserted for Reggie Jackson in the ninth inning, stroked a two-strike single past short in the 12th, scoring the fleet Willie Randolph with the winning run.

In the sixth inning, Randolph had turned from speedster to power hitter, socking his first home run since July 12 (274 at bats) to tie the game at 2-2.

Blair, a beanball victim earlier in his career, still carries the psychological scars and ducks away from right-handed pitchers. But his clutch single in the 12th came off right-handed reliever Rick Rhoden, the fifth Los Angeles pitcher. He also singled off Kansas City right-hander Dennis Leonard Sunday, launching the Yankees' ninth-inning, pennant-winning rally.

Blair's game-winner came after he had failed to lay down successful sacrifice bunts in the 10th and 12th innings. "I was disappointed that I didn't get the bat down really good when I was trying to bunt," Blair said.

Randolph, the Yankees' 23-year-old All-Star second baseman, was the New York power hitter Tuesday night, stealing the thunder from sluggers Jackson, Graig Nettles and Chris Chambliss, who remain in dismal slumps. None of them has an extra-base hit in postseason play.

"All year I've been in the background, so this feels great," said the quiet Randolph, who had only four homers in the regular season. "But I'm not really a home run hitter and I don't look to hit the long ball. I just go up there and try to be aggressive."

Randolph has a chance to continue his hot hitting while the real Yankee home run threats hope to wake up their bats tonight in Game 2, when New York's Catfish Hunter pitches against Burt Hooton in a battle of right-handers.

Hunter, sidelined since Sept. 10 because of a urological disorder, may be well rested.

"I threw twice in the bullpen during the playoffs and I feel fine," said Hunter. "I'm too dumb to be scared, but I did call my son and told him he sure and watch the first inning so he won't miss anything."

The Yankee Stadium crowd of 56,668 — largest of the season — and a national television audience saw something Tuesday night in a match of historic rivalry between Dodger Blue and Yankee Pinstripes.

Bill Russell's run-scoring triple and Ron Cey's sacrifice fly sent the Dodgers out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning, but Gullett, calmed down by Martin and catcher Thurman Munson, then snuffed out the rally.

"I knew he was throwing the ball real hard," said Martin. "I just went out there to calm him down. His throwing was sensational. I'm very proud of him." Munson was also in on the mound meeting. "He told me if we get this guy out, someone's in trouble the rest of the game," Munson related. "Don Gullett's a great competitor."

So is Munson, whose RBI single in the first was his sixth straight World Series hit dating back to the 1976 Series.

The Yankee captain also stroked an RBI double down the left-field line in the eighth, giving the Yankees a 3-2 lead, which didn't last long. Lee Lacy's one-out pinch-hit single off Lyle in the ninth chased home Dusty Baker and sent the game into extra innings.

Munson was also involved in the game's most controversial play, a sixth-inning tag play, with center fielder Mickey Rivers' throw beating Steve Garvey to the plate.

"The ball beat him," said Munson.

The Dodgers didn't agree.

"It looked like the umpire (Nestor Chylak) was on the wrong side of the plate when he made the call," said Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda. "Steve thought he was safe and so did I. But that doesn't matter. We have to think about tomorrow."

CHS Boosters Will Meet

The Circleville High School Athletic Booster Club will hold its regular meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Head football coach Larry Cook will discuss last week's win over Greenfield and show the films of that game. The final plans for the Pumpkin Show booth will be made.

The public is cordially invited to attend, and refreshments will be served.

Brave Spikers Crush Picktown

By TOM SPRING
Herald Sports Writer

As Logan Elm Brave coach Linda Vaughn walked out of the gym during Tuesday night's reserve game for a pregame conference with the varsity squad, she confided, "We're really up for this one."

"This one" could well be the one for the marbles. Visiting Pickerington and

Logan Elm both entered the contest with undefeated records as did both of the reserve squads, with three contests to go in Mid State League competition.

The first match began to look like a runaway as Logan Elm pulled ahead quickly, 8-3. But the Bulldogs came back even and serves switched dozens of times in a game that looked as if it might go on forever. Finally, Picktown pulled out the two-point gap and won 16-18.

The Braves weren't undaunted, however. Talk about being up. Logan Elm's Abby Rife placed 13 straight serves (one on a replay) as the Braves zapped the Bulldogs 15-4 in the second game.

The final game was even better, 15-0. The win gave Logan Elm undisputed first place, with a 6-0 Mid State record. Pickerington dropped its first league match.

When asked how the Braves turned around so quickly and dramatically after the first game, Vaughn said, "Beats the heck out of me!" Then, explaining succinctly, she said, "We don't like to lose."

Indeed, they don't. Earlier this year, they beat Millersport after falling behind 3-14.

Susan DeLong made 13 of 14 spikes. In the reserve contest, the Braves went down to their first defeat while Pickerington remained undefeated.

Logan Elm lost 8-15, 15-11, 5-15.

Tammy Wooten made 26 of 28 bump attempts; Lisa Rife made 15 of 16 bump attempts and seven of nine serves; Nancy Archer connected on nine of 11 serves and Linda Jacobs made three perfect spikes.

Simpson Frustrated With Bills

BUFFALO (AP) — O.J. Simpson is second cousin to retired baseball star Ernie Banks, a relationship in which he sees some irony.

Noting Banks played 19 seasons for the Chicago Cubs and never got in a World Series, Simpson grinned and said, "I guess it just runs in the family, huh?"

In eight-plus seasons, Simpson's

Buffalo Bills are 40-74-2, and are currently saddled with a 14-game losing streak. They seem light years away from making the Super Bowl, Simpson's greatest goal as a player.

This summer a frustrated Simpson verbally blasted the Bills management for its failure to build a contender. More recently he said, "I can't be second-guessing Ralph (Bills owner

Ralph Wilson)."

But then he added, "After last season I thought it was apparent that some changes needed to be made. But they didn't make any. Instead they let two players (offensive linemen Donnie Green and Mike Montler) who had helped the team go."

Simpson also pointed out that several former Bills, such as wide receivers Ahmad Rashad and J.D. Hill, are now mainstays on other teams.

"They never took the time to develop players here. If a player didn't look good at first, he was gone. You have to give players time. Look at New England. They've got basically the same players now that they had three years ago when we were running all over them."

Simpson believes the Bills are currently building a potential winner under coach Jim Ringo, but he said, "I'm not going to see it. It takes time to build a young team like this."

The club failed to work out a requested trade last year that would have sent Simpson to a West Coast team, a contender, he hoped. The Los Angeles Rams actively pursued Simpson but felt Wilson's asking price (reportedly defensive end Jack Youngblood, back Lawrence McCutcheon, tackle Mike Fanning and two top draft choices) was too high.

Simpson now is certain he will end his career in Buffalo.

"It's never even crossed my mind that I might be traded after this season. I'm not going to ask for it."

"I thought it would be wise for the team to trade me for some players to build with, but I've got no hard feelings. I'm a team man all the way," he said.

When Simpson asked to be traded, he cited as one reason his wife Marquerite's aversion to living in Buffalo. That and earlier deprecatory remarks didn't sit well with residents of the city.

"I think most of those things were grossly misinterpreted. I'm from the West Coast, and that's where my interests are. I don't have anything against Buffalo. I just have other preferences," he said.

Many fans suspect Simpson of having an overinflated ego, a charge refuted by those who work with him behind-the-scenes.

Simpson thinks "it will take a miracle" for him to play in a Super Bowl now, but takes consolation in others' high esteem for him.

25 AAU Events To Appear On TV Next Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ollan Cassell, executive director of the Amateur Athletic Union, announced Tuesday that 25 AAU events will appear on the nation's three major television networks next year.

Cassell, here for the annual national AAU convention, said ABC, CBS and NBC will carry championships in six AAU sports.

He said ABC will pick up 13 events in five sports, including national championships in boxing, weightlifting, outdoor swimming, diving and track and field.

Cassell also said ABC would telecast the United States-Russia outdoor dual track meet and a pair of boxing meets between the two nations.

The NBC network has agreed to carry the AAU's National Junior Olympics, indoor national championships in swimming and diving and the powerlifting nationals.

Other events scheduled by NBC are the International Cup of Swimming, the Armed Services Boxing Championships, the Fort Lauderdale Diving Invitational, the Dan Ferris Invitational Track Meet and a pair of United States-Russia dual swimming meets.

Cassell said CBS will show the AAU indoor national track and field meet.

In other convention business Collegian Kathy McMillan, 19, the long jump silver medalist in the 1976 Olympics, was named the AAU Female Track and Field Star of the Year. She is a student at Tennessee State University.

UCLA Coach George Haines was selected to coach the United States squad in the 1978 World Aquatic Championships in West Berlin.

Haines, a member of the American coaching staff at the last four Olympics, will direct the team that will be selected from the 1978 long course outdoor championships at Woodlands, Tex.

His assistant coaches will be Mark Schubert of Mission Viejo, Calif., Don Gambriel of the University of Alabama, Paul Bergen of Nashville, Tenn., Frank Keefe of Philadelphia, Peter Daland of the University of Southern California and Don Jacklin of Cupertino, Calif.

George Breen of the University of Pennsylvania and Ray Jutkins of Los Angeles were named the American team's managers for the world competition Aug. 20-29 next year.

Dodgers Have Counter Punch

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees got in the first blow of the World Series, but Mike Garman thinks the Los Angeles Dodgers have a counter-punch coming.

"There's no reason to be down," the Dodger relief ace said Tuesday night after Los Angeles was beaten by the Yankees 4-3 in a 12-inning World Series opener.

"We lost the first game of the National League playoffs to the Philadelphia Phillies, but bounced back and beat them three straight. We blew them out, and we're the type of club that can blow out the Yankees, or any other club. I feel there'll be no problem coming back."

In charge of the hopeful Dodger comeback tonight will be Burt Hooton, a 12-game winner with world of confidence.

"We're a great comeback team," said Hooton. "We go out and play good baseball all the time and don't give away runs. You have to earn them against us."

Hooton, though, shows great respect for the American League champions, especially the hitting talents of Thurman Munson.

"Munson looks like the toughest hitter in their lineup," Hooton noted. "He hits the ball to all fields, and

Coach Of Year Gives Last Pep Talk

WEST LIBERTY, Ohio (AP) — Dennis Price has given his last half-time pep talk to a high school football team.

"You have to go out and win it now," Price urged his old team, West Liberty-Salem. The players responded. They beat Benjamin Logan 19-8 after a scoreless first half.

Just a year ago he led the Champion County school to nine victories in 10 games and was hailed as Ohio Class A Coach of the Year.

But now the 33-year-old Price was delivering his pep talk from a wheelchair upon accepting the award. He has multiple sclerosis.

"I don't think there was a dry eye on the whole bench," said Gary Bolyard, the current coach. "It was as emotional as I ever heard a crowd here."

Ed Boysel, a West Liberty-Salem player who has been close to Price, helped his old coach from a car into a wheelchair to accept the state coaching award.

Bolyard said, "The players were visibly shaken at his condition because they hadn't seen him for a while."

consistently gets a piece of the ball.

He's definitely their toughest out."

One of the things that Hooton will try not to do is pitch Willie Randolph high and tight. The slender Yankee second baseman adjusted to that pitch from Don Sutton Tuesday night and belted the ball into the left field seats for New York's second run.

"It was a fastball right up here," said Sutton, indicating a high pitch with his right hand. "It was in a perfect location but I didn't have a lot on it."

If Sutton would like to have that pitch back, Steve Garvey would appreciate the same on a slide he made in the sixth inning. Attempting to score from first on a single to right by Glenn Burke, Garvey was called out at home on a close play.

"There's no doubt in my mind I was safe on that play," Garvey said. "Thurman Munson tagged me high on the thigh and that meant my foot was into the base."

The play turned out to be the most crucial of the game for the Dodgers, because it would have been their eventual winning run in regulation time.

"He was safe," said Los Angeles Manager Tommy Lasorda. "But we can't worry about that now. That's all behind us. There's nothing we can do about it. We'll bounce back tomorrow. I've got great faith in this team."

Norwalk Man Forming Semi-Pro Football League

Sam Koch, Norwalk, Ohio, is forming a new statewide semi-pro football league which is to begin play next July or August.

Responsible, top caliber people interested in forming a team in this area are invited to write for further details.

Although the league will be called semi-pro, no players will be allowed to receive payment for playing. Only those who are willing to play for the honor and enjoyment that comes from playing will be eligible to compete in the league, Koch said. By having this type of football program, he said, an enormous expense will be eliminated and almost any team or area will be able to field a fully equipped, financially sound team.

The league will observe National Football League rules and play hard-hitting football. Those interested may write to Sam Koch, P.O. Box 231, Norwalk, Ohio 44857.

NHL Starts Season Tonight

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The National Hockey League — boasting a new president, a new playoff format, a new rule and nine new coaches — starts the 1977-78 season tonight facing the same old problem: who's going to beat the Montreal Canadiens?

For their last two championship seasons, almost no one has. Montreal's composite record over that span is 118 victories, 19 losses and 23 ties. By Thanksgiving of last year, when they finished 60-4-12, they had won more games than the Detroit Red Wings would manage to take all season.

The Canadiens kick off their drive for a third consecutive title tonight by hosting the Minnesota North Stars. Elsewhere, the Vancouver Canucks visit the New York Rangers, the Pittsburgh Penguins host the St. Louis Blues and the Cleveland Barons meet the Kings at Los Angeles.

The contests will mark the debuts of four of the nine coaches beginning their first full seasons with new teams. Jean-Guy Talbot, who coached six games for the Rangers last year, begins his first complete campaign with the club; Leo Boivin has returned to the helm at St. Louis; Johnny Wilson will lead the Penguins and Ron Stewart will guide the Kings tonight.

Other debuts will be made Thursday, when Marcel Pronovost leads the Buffalo Sabres against the New York Islanders, Bob Pulford sends the Chicago Black Hawks against the Philadelphia Flyers and Toronto's Roger Neilson comes up against another NHL rookie: Detroit Coach

Bobby Kromm.

On Friday, Pat Kelly will guide the Colorado Rockies against the Vancouver Canucks.

Today also marked the first major decision to be made by new league president John Ziegler, who was expected to decide punishment for those Flyers and Boston Bruins involved in an ugly fight at the Spectrum in Philadelphia last Thursday night. In all, 18 players were ejected and 311 penalty minutes assessed in the brawl.

The fortunes of the new coaches — and the old ones, too — lie in the number of points their teams can compile by the end of the season. Under the new playoff format, the top two teams in each of the four NHL divisions qualify for post-season play, with "wild card" berths to be awarded the four teams which compile the next-highest number of points. Thus a last-place team could qualify for the playoffs by collecting more points than a third-place team in another division. So the more points, the better. And apparently, the more goals the better, for a rule change now permits offensive players to accept a pass over two or even three zone lines if the player was behind the center red line when the pass crossed it.

Previously, such passes were ruled offside. The new rule should lead to more breakaways and more scoring.

Mid American Conference Names Players

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Eastern Michigan quarterback Steve Raklovits and Mike Rosenberger, a Miami defensive tackle, are the unanimous selections as the Mid-American Conference Football Players of the Week.

Raklovits, a 6-foot, 210-pound senior from Kalamazoo, Mich., won the offensive honors for his performance in a 31-14 victory over Ohio University, keeping the surprising Hurons in second place in the league standings.

Raklovits completed 11 of 19 passes for 158 yards and one touchdown and ran 12 times for 51 more yards and two additional scores. It's the second time he has won the award this season.

Rosenberger, 5-11, 225-pound junior from Cincinnati, participated in 23 tackles, 15 of them solo hits, as Miami outscored Marshall 29-19. Rosenberger blocked two punts and four of his tackles were behind the line of scrimmage.

Also considered for offensive honors by a media panel were Mike Obrovac of Bowling Green, Chuck Harbin of Central Michigan, Rick Morrison of Ball State, Larry Fortner of Miami, Randy Shelton of Northern Illinois, Kevin Babcock of Ohio and Paul Marchese of Kent State.

Other defensive candidates were Ken Kremer of Kent State, Jack Williams of Bowling Green, Jerry Fulz of Ohio, Jon Gotwald of Toledo, Mike Ryan of Central Michigan, Terry Thames of Eastern Michigan, Harry Liggins of Kent State, Dean Schultz of Northern Illinois and Rick Smith of Western Michigan.

The Los Angeles Dodgers played their first 737 home games without a rainout. The string was broken April 21, 1967.

Circleville Harriers Top Hurricane

Circleville High School's cross country team defeated Wilmington 18-43 Tuesday afternoon at the home of the Hurricanes.

The Tiger harriers took four of the first five places to cop the meet, raising their record to 11-2.

Stan Lasoski toured the course in 13:51 for first place. Also turning in good times were Scott Watters, second, 13:54; Dave Holbrook, third, 13:58; Dave McKinney, fifth, 14:23; Jeff Rase, seventh, 14:40; Chuck Adams, eighth, 14:43; Dave Cherrington, ninth, 14:57; Dick Obermeyer, 14th, 16:08; Robbie Radcliff, 16th, 16:12; John Adams, 18th, 16:41 and Bill Rich, 20th.

Circleville placed fifth in the seventh annual Rio Grande Invitational Saturday.

Heath ran its way to first place with 43 points. Ridgewood was second with 85 and Circleville garnered 135 points. Twelve teams participated in the 'AA' Division.

Caldwell won in Class 'A' competition and Cincinnati Forest Park won the Class 'AAA' trophy.

Finishing for Circleville were Stan Lasoski, sixth, 15:19; Dave Holbrook, 21st, 16:09; Scott Watters, 22nd, 16:10; Dave McKinney, 42nd, 16:51; Chuck Adams, 44th, 16:54; Dave Cherrington, 60th, 17:24 and Jeff Rase, 63rd, 17:43.

The Tigers host Miami Trace and Bloom Carroll 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

BOY RUNS MARATHON — Sean Hartley, 8, is held by his father, Chris Hartley, both of Fort Lupton, Colo. after running 26.2 miles in the City of Lakes Big Green Team Marathon in Minneapolis, Minnesota with a time of 3 hours, 20 minutes, and 21 seconds.

Simpson Frustrated With Bills

BUFFALO (AP) — O.J. Simpson is second cousin to retired baseball star Ernie Banks, a relationship in which he sees some irony.

Noting Banks played 19 seasons for the Chicago Cubs and never got in a World Series, Simpson grinned and said, "I guess it just runs in the family, huh?"

In eight-plus seasons, Simpson's

Buffalo Bills are 40-74-2, and are currently saddled with a 14-game losing streak. They seem light years away from making the Super Bowl, Simpson's greatest goal as a player.

This summer a frustrated Simpson verbally blasted the Bills management for its failure to build a contender. More recently he said, "I can't be second-guessing Ralph (Bills owner

Ralph Wilson)."

But then he added, "After last season I thought it was apparent that some changes needed to be made. But they didn't make any. Instead they let two players (offensive linemen Donnie Green and Mike Montler) who had helped the team go."

Simpson also pointed out that several former Bills, such as wide receivers Ahmad Rashad and J.D. Hill, are now mainstays on other teams.

"They never took the time to develop players here. If a player didn't look good at first, he was gone. You have to give players time. Look at New England. They've got basically the same players now that they had three years ago when we were running all over them."

Simpson believes the Bills are currently building a potential winner under coach Jim Ringo, but he said, "I'm not going to see it. It takes time to build a young team like this."

The club failed to work out a requested trade last year that would have sent Simpson to a West Coast team, a contender, he hoped. The Los Angeles Rams actively pursued Simpson but felt Wilson's asking price (reportedly defensive end Jack Youngblood, back Lawrence McCutcheon, tackle Mike Fanning and two top draft choices) was too high.

Simpson now is certain he will end his career in Buffalo.

"It's never even crossed my mind that I might be traded after this season. I'm not going to ask for it."

"I thought it would be wise for the team to trade me for some players to build with, but I've got no hard feelings. I'm a team man all the way," he said.

When Simpson asked to be traded, he cited as one reason his wife Marguerite's aversion to living in Buffalo. That and earlier deprecatory remarks didn't sit well with residents of the city.

"I think most of those things were grossly misinterpreted. I'm from the West Coast, and that's where my interests are. I don't have anything against Buffalo. I just have other preferences," he said.

Many fans suspect Simpson of having an overinflated ego, a charge refuted by those who work with him behind-the-scenes.

Simpson thinks "it will take a miracle" for him to play in a Super Bowl now, but takes consolation in others' high esteem for him.

25 AAU Events To Appear On TV Next Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ollan Cassell, executive director of the Amateur Athletic Union, announced Tuesday that 25 AAU events will appear on the nation's three major television networks next year.

Cassell, here for the annual national AAU convention, said ABC, CBS and NBC will carry championships in six AAU sports.

He said ABC will pick up 13 events in five sports, including national championships in boxing, weightlifting, outdoor swimming, diving and track and field.

Cassell also said ABC would telecast the United States-Russia outdoor dual track meet and a pair of boxing meets between the two nations.

The NBC network has agreed to carry the AAU's National Junior Olympics, indoor national championships in swimming and diving and the powerlifting nationals.

Other events scheduled by NBC are the International Cup of Swimming, the Armed Services Boxing Championships, the Fort Lauderdale Diving Invitational, the Dan Ferris Invitational Track Meet and a pair of United States-Russia dual swimming meets.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE OHIO CONSTITUTION

3 PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

To amend Article VIII of the Constitution of Ohio by adopting Section 14

1. TO AUTHORIZE THE STATE TO LEND ITS AID AND CREDIT TO INDIVIDUALS, ASSOCIATIONS, COMPANIES, OR CORPORATIONS, TO BORROW MONEY, AND ISSUE BONDS OR NOTES TO PROVIDE FOR HOUSING AND THE REHABILITATION OF HOUSING, AND TO MAKE DIRECT LOANS FOR LOW AND MODERATE INCOME HOUSING.
2. TO AUTHORIZE MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS AND COUNTIES, IN THE ABSENCE OF LAWS PASSED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO THE CONTRARY, TO DO THE SAME AS PARAGRAPH 1 ABOVE.
3. TO VALIDATE AND RATIFY THE BOND AUTHORITY OF SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 870 OF THE 110TH GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

(Proposed by Resolution of the General Assembly of Ohio)
A majority affirmative vote is necessary for passage.

EXPLANATION OF ISSUE No. 3

The Constitution presently provides that the credit of the state cannot be given or loaned except in a limited manner. This amendment would create additional authority for state, municipal, and county governments to loan or give credit as follows:

1. By authorizing the state to lend its aid and credit to individuals, associations, companies, or corporations, to borrow money, and issue bonds or notes to provide for housing and the rehabilitation of housing, and to make direct loans for low and moderate income housing.
2. By authorizing municipal corporations and counties, in the absence of laws passed by the General Assembly to the contrary, to do the same as paragraph 1 above.
3. By validating and ratifying the bond authority of Substitute House Bill No. 870 of the 110th General Assembly.

Moneys raised by taxation cannot be obligated or pledged for the payment of bonds or other obligations issued by the state or to secure the giving or loaning of the state's credit. However, the General Assembly could appropriate moneys into a reserve fund to be used to retire the bonds or to secure the state's obligations in this respect. Bonds which the state issues would have to be revenue bonds or supported by a special reserve fund to which the state had appropriated money since moneys raised by taxation cannot be obligated or pledged for the payment of such bonds or other obligations.

Municipal corporations and counties, in the absence of laws to the contrary, can borrow money, issue bonds or notes, and give and lend their credit to provide for housing and housing rehabilitation. These governmental entities can also make direct loans for low and moderate income housing to the extent that such loans do not contravene laws enacted by the General Assembly.

Under existing law municipal corporations and metropolitan housing authorities are authorized to construct and operate public housing facilities. A municipal corporation, under its inherent home rule powers, has authority to maintain public housing. Under the authority of the proposed amendment (new Section 14) the municipal corporation or any county would be authorized to borrow money and issue general obligation bonds or notes and give or lend its credit to individuals, corporations, or associations to provide for public housing or for the rehabilitation of housing. The borrowing of money or lending of aid or credit by a municipal corporation or county would not be subject to the limitations present in Sections 6 or 11 of Article XVIII of the Constitution. However, they would be subject to the limitations upon indebtedness which are otherwise provided by law and specifically to the current debt limitations on municipal corporations and counties found in Chapter 133 of the Ohio Revised Code.

The proposed amendment provides that the lending of aid or credit is not subject to the limitations of other sections of Article VIII or of Sections 6 and 11 of Article XII of the Ohio Constitution.

Amended Substitute House Bill No. 870 enacted in 1974 by the 110th General Assembly is validated by the amendment. That bill authorized the Ohio Housing Development Authority to sell tax-free bonds and notes to provide financial aid to private persons and associations for the rehabilitation and construction of housing for low and moderate income persons. The Supreme Court held in 1976 that the issuance of revenue bonds by the Ohio Housing Development Authority was not proper under the Constitution and that the enactment of Amended Substitute House Bill No. 870 did not qualify as a valid exercise of legislative power. Consequently, the adoption of new Section 14 would eliminate the Constitutional defects in Amended Substitute House Bill No. 870 and validate that 1974 enactment by the General Assembly.

ARGUMENTS FOR THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Ohio's citizens are entitled to live in decent housing. Yet, with skyrocketing interest rates, fewer working people can afford to buy their own homes or to rent safe, sound apartments. Fewer retired persons, and others on fixed incomes, can afford to maintain adequate housing.

Issue 3 will revitalize the housing industry in Ohio. It should provide many of the 100,000 units needed over the next few years by freeing up home construction money at reduced interest rates. More people will be able to afford their own homes.

It will help reduce blight, preserving neighborhoods before they can become slums.

It will encourage rehabilitation of existing housing, promoting more attractive neighborhoods and better use of energy.

It will enable Ohio to use its entire share of federal housing dollars.

It will complement housing programs provided through conventional loans, lowering interest rates for all.

HOW WILL IT WORK?

Tax-free bonds for housing could be sold at rates 2% to 4% lower than bonds offered at regular interest rates.

Over the course of a 30-year, $45,000 mortgage, a 4% reduction on interest amounts to $34,500 or a $96 savings each month.

The projects would be self-supporting, coming from the sale of or rent from the housing. Thirty-nine states already run such programs.

The Air Quality and Water Development Authorities have operated similar programs in Ohio for years, at no cost to the taxpayer.

CONCLUSION

Housing problems are not limited to the poor. The average price of a new home is $48,000 and rising rapidly. This threatens to wreck, for young and old alike, the American Dream of owning a home.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

This Constitutional proposal would create a jumbo state agency with authority to sell unlimited millions of dollars of revenue bonds and then make direct loans to individuals even though experience in other states has been disastrous for some similar programs.

Husband Upsets Wife By His Indifference

DEAR ABBY: I am 40, and have been married for 20 years. For some unknown reason my husband has lost all interest in sex. I told him in a very nice way that I missed his loving, and he just laughed and said, "Oh come on, we're both too old for that kind of stuff!" (He's 42.) We get along fine, but it's like living with my brother.

He always comes right home after work and never goes anywhere without me, so I'm sure there's no other woman.

I can't understand his indifference. I keep myself neat and clean and I never nag him.

Our four children will all be gone and on their own soon, and if this is any sample of what my life will be like when they're gone, it won't be worth living. Sign me . . .

UNDERLOVED

The appropriate way to realize our housing needs is to work through traditional lenders, not another layer of government bureaucracy which first needs to be put into place, and then will have to develop an expertise to match its responsibilities.

This proposed amendment to our Constitution would allow an undetermined millions of dollars of bonds to be issued, and would then allow this huge state agency to make loans directly to individuals, as well as companies and associations. Those favored by selection for loans are thereby enabled to harness taxpayers' funds for their private gain. Whatever the rationale for bypassing the existing network of financial institutions in favor of a state agency to make these housing loans, there seems to be little reason for direct loans to individuals.

The voters of Ohio have recently expressed their distaste for this type of arrangement, and at least two sister states have been to the brink of default on obligations due resulting from the severe strain on their resources by housing authority programs that are substantially similar. The potential for abuse is staggering, not only due to political currents, but also due to sheer lack of experience residing in the agency. Allegations that construction funds were improperly spent was a key factor in the virtual collapse of the New York State Urban Development Corporation.

The proposed changes to the Constitution spring from motives held by a great many citizens of this state who recognize the need for the revitalization and construction of housing, but this method of doing so is ill-advised.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE OHIO CONSTITUTION

3 PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

To amend Article VIII of the Constitution of Ohio by adopting Section 14

1. TO AUTHORIZE THE STATE TO LEND ITS AID AND CREDIT TO INDIVIDUALS, ASSOCIATIONS, COMPANIES, OR CORPORATIONS, TO BORROW MONEY, AND ISSUE BONDS OR NOTES TO PROVIDE FOR HOUSING AND THE REHABILITATION OF HOUSING, AND TO MAKE DIRECT LOANS FOR LOW AND MODERATE INCOME HOUSING.
2. TO AUTHORIZE MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS AND COUNTIES, IN THE ABSENCE OF LAWS PASSED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO THE CONTRARY, TO DO THE SAME AS PARAGRAPH 1 ABOVE.
3. TO VALIDATE AND RATIFY THE BOND AUTHORITY OF SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 870 OF THE 110TH GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

(Proposed by Resolution of the General Assembly of Ohio)
A majority affirmative vote is necessary for passage.

EXPLANATION OF ISSUE No. 3

The Constitution presently provides that the credit of the state cannot be given or loaned except in a limited manner. This amendment would create additional authority for state, municipal, and county governments to loan or give credit as follows:

1. By authorizing the state to lend its aid and credit to individuals, associations, companies, or corporations, to borrow money, and issue bonds or notes to provide for housing and the rehabilitation of housing, and to make direct loans for low and moderate income housing.
2. By authorizing municipal corporations and counties, in the absence of laws passed by the General Assembly to the contrary, to do the same as paragraph 1 above.
3. By validating and ratifying the bond authority of Substitute House Bill No. 870 of the 110th General Assembly.

Moneys raised by taxation cannot be obligated or pledged for the payment of bonds or other obligations issued by the state or to secure the giving or loaning of the state's credit. However, the General Assembly could appropriate moneys into a reserve fund to be used to retire the bonds or to secure the state's obligations in this respect. Bonds which the state issues would have to be revenue bonds or supported by a special reserve fund to which the state had appropriated money since moneys raised by taxation cannot be obligated or pledged for the payment of such bonds or other obligations.

Municipal corporations and counties, in the absence of laws to the contrary, can borrow money, issue bonds or notes, and give and lend their credit to provide for housing and housing rehabilitation. These governmental entities can also make direct loans for low and moderate income housing to the extent that such loans do not contravene laws enacted by the General Assembly.

Under existing law municipal corporations and metropolitan housing authorities are authorized to construct and operate public housing facilities. A municipal corporation, under its inherent home rule powers, has authority to maintain public housing. Under the authority of the proposed amendment (new Section 14) the municipal corporation or any county would be authorized to borrow money and issue general obligation bonds or notes and give or lend its credit to individuals, corporations, or associations to provide for public housing or for the rehabilitation of housing. The borrowing of money or lending of aid or credit by a municipal corporation or county would not be subject to the limitations present in Sections 6 or 11 of Article XVIII of the Constitution. However, they would be subject to the limitations upon indebtedness which are otherwise provided by law and specifically to the current debt limitations on municipal corporations and counties found in Chapter 133 of the Ohio Revised Code.

The proposed amendment provides that the lending of aid or credit is not subject to the limitations of other sections of Article VIII or of Sections 6 and 11 of Article XII of the Ohio Constitution.

Amended Substitute House Bill No. 870 enacted in 1974 by the 110th General Assembly is validated by the amendment. That bill authorized the Ohio Housing Development Authority to sell tax-free bonds and notes to provide financial aid to private persons and associations for the rehabilitation and construction of housing for low and moderate income persons. The Supreme Court held in 1976 that the issuance of revenue bonds by the Ohio Housing Development Authority was not proper under the Constitution and that the enactment of Amended Substitute House Bill No. 870 did not qualify as a valid exercise of legislative power. Consequently, the adoption of new Section 14 would eliminate the Constitutional defects in Amended Substitute House Bill No. 870 and validate that 1974 enactment by the General Assembly.

ARGUMENTS FOR THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Ohio's citizens are entitled to live in decent housing. Yet, with skyrocketing interest rates, fewer working people can afford to buy their own homes or to rent safe, sound apartments. Fewer retired persons, and others on fixed incomes, can afford to maintain adequate housing.

Issue 3 will revitalize the housing industry in Ohio. It should provide many of the 100,000 units needed over the next few years by freeing up home construction money at reduced interest rates. More people will be able to afford their own homes.

It will help reduce blight, preserving neighborhoods before they can become slums.

It will encourage rehabilitation of existing housing, promoting more attractive neighborhoods and better use of energy.

It will enable Ohio to use its entire share of federal housing dollars.

It will complement housing programs provided through conventional loans, lowering interest rates for all.

And it will create jobs and put thousands of people to work.

HOW WILL IT WORK?

Tax-free bonds for housing could be sold at rates 2% to 4% lower than bonds offered at regular interest rates.

Over the course of a 30-year, $45,000 mortgage, a 4% reduction on interest amounts to $34,500 or a $96 savings each month.

The projects would be self-supporting, coming from the sale of or rent from the housing. Thirty-nine states already run such programs.

The Air Quality and Water Development Authorities have operated similar programs in Ohio for years, at no cost to the taxpayer.

CONCLUSION

Housing problems are not limited to the poor. The average price of a new home is $48,000 and rising rapidly. This threatens to wreck, for young and old alike, the American Dream of owning a home.

ISSUE 3

(Amended Substitute House Joint Resolution No. 18)

JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing to amend Article VIII of the Constitution of Ohio by adding Section 14 to authorize the state and its political subdivisions to provide and rehabilitate housing.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring herein, that there shall be submitted to the electors of the state in the manner prescribed by law at the general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1977, a proposal to amend Article VIII of the Constitution of Ohio by adding immediately following Section 13 a new section as follows:

ARTICLE VIII

Section 14. (A) Laws may be passed authorizing the state or its agencies or instrumentalities to provide housing, including the rehabilitation thereof and to make direct loans for low and moderate income housing, all of which are declared public purposes, by borrowing money and issuing bonds or notes in anticipation thereof and giving and loaning the credit of the state, or in aid of, individuals, associations, companies, or corporations.

(B) The borrowing of money and the giving or loaning of credit by the state pursuant to this section shall not be subject to nor considered in determining the limitations of any other section of Article VIII or of Sections 6 and 11 of Article XII of this Constitution. Moneys raised by taxation shall not be obligated or pledged for the payment of bonds or other obligations issued or to secure the giving or loaning of credit by the state pursuant to this section, provided that the General Assembly may in its discretion and without obligation to do so, appropriate moneys to reserve funds to be held therein without lapsing to secure the payment of such bonds or other obligations.

(C) In the absence of laws passed by the General Assembly to the contrary, any municipal corporation, as part of its authority to exercise all powers of local self-government pursuant to Article XVIII of this Constitution, or any county may borrow money and issue bonds or notes in anticipation thereof and give and loan its credit to, or in aid of, individuals, associations, companies, or corporations, for the public purpose of providing housing, including the rehabilitation thereof and to make direct loans, provided that direct loans may only be made for low and moderate income housing. BE ADOPTED?

EXPLANATION OF ISSUE No. 4

Constitutional provisions currently in effect prohibit the state from borrowing more than $750,000. A number of exceptions to this limitation are now in the Constitution.

This proposed Constitutional amendment provides for revised limitations upon state indebtedness. The proposed amendment authorizes the General Assembly by two-thirds concurrence of each house to contract debt for capital improvements by the state or to provide funds to local governmental entities for such purposes, within the limitations that payments on the state's total outstanding debt shall not exceed 6% of the state's annual revenues and debt contracted in any fiscal year shall not exceed 8% of the total revenue that is subject to the General Assembly's appropriations.

The General Assembly is required to provide for the retirement of at least 4% of the state's outstanding indebtedness each year and provide the method, procedures, and appropriations for incurring, evidencing, refunding, and retiring of state debts.

The amendment provides additional authority for general obligation indebtedness for capital improvement or other purposes which may be contracted by a three-fifths majority concurrence of each house of the General Assembly if it is further approved by the voters. Indebtedness incurred in this manner would not be subject to limitations as to size or purpose or be included in the requirement to retire at least 4% of the principal debt each fiscal year.

The amendment provides that the state may contract debt during any fiscal year to meet appropriations of the General Assembly for such fiscal year, if such debt is repaid prior to the end of the fiscal year from state revenues other than borrowed funds.

If the General Assembly should fail to provide the required appropriations the Treasurer of State shall set aside moneys from the General Revenue Fund to provide for the full and timely payment of principal and interest on all state debts.

The Treasurer of State would be required to determine and certify the annual principal and interest payments on outstanding debts, the annual revenues that serve as the basis for determining the debt limitations, and any other financial data necessary for determining the limitations on borrowing authority or the amounts of principal to be retired. The Treasurer's determination would be conclusive for the purposes of this amendment.

The amendment would establish the minimum amounts which shall be appropriated for various purposes from the proceeds of bonds or notes authorized under the capital improvement provisions of this amendment as follows:

- (1) $80 million for state office buildings, including retirement of bonds and notes of the Ohio Building Authority;
- (2) $8 million for energy research or demonstration projects;
- (3) $200 million for transportation, at least one-half of which shall be for roads and bridges maintained by counties, townships, and municipalities;
- (4) $64 million for mental health and retardation facilities;
- (5) $80 million for correctional institutions;
- (6) $80 million for parks and recreation;
- (7) $35 million for water development;
- (8) $43 million for higher education;
- (9) $30 million for elementary and secondary education school building modernization or replacement;
- (10) $20 million for the multi-purpose senior citizens' center.

An amount not exceeding 15% of the total amounts enumerated above may be expended for any one of the above enumerated purposes or for any other purpose without all of the required appropriations for capital improvements having been made.

The amendment provides for the repeal of the following present Constitutional provisions:

Article VIII, Section 1—Imposing a $750,000 limitation upon state indebtedness.

Article VIII, Section 2—The authority for the state to borrow for the suppression of insurrection or to defend the state in wartime is transferred from Section 2 to Section 1, and Section 2 is repealed. The indebtedness incurred for these purposes is not made subject to the revenue-linked limitations or the 4% retirement limitation.

Other sections of Article VIII which provide for the World War II Compensation Fund, debt and bond-issuing authority for highway purposes, the Korean War bonus, state capital improvements, public works, and the issuance of development bonds are repealed. Sections of Article VIII which prohibit debt except as authorized by Sections 1 and 2 of Article VIII, require creation of a Sinking Fund for debt retirement, require a biennial report of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, and specify the duties of the Commissioners to repay debt are also repealed. Section 6 of Article XII, which prohibits the state from contracting for internal improvements except as otherwise provided in the Constitution, is repealed.

ARGUMENTS FOR THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

This Constitutional Amendment would REPEAL THE $750,000 DEBT LIMIT ESTABLISHED IN 1851 and replace it with a flexible debt tied directly to the state's revenues.

The bi-partisan Ohio Constitutional Revision Commission recommended this Amendment, indicating that a "flexible debt limit," responsive to the state's ability to repay, is the best solution for modernizing the mechanism by which Ohio incurs debt for capital improvement purposes.

Recognizing the preference of the people of Ohio for Constitutional control in fiscal matters, this amendment contains the following restrictions:

1. Issuance of bonds WOULD REQUIRE A TWO-THIRDS VOTE OF BOTH HOUSES of the Legislature.
2. PRINCIPLE AND INTEREST OWED on bonds to be issued and on all outstanding bonds CANNOT IN ANY ONE YEAR EXCEED 6% of the average of the state's revenues for the preceding two years.
3. The DOLLAR AMOUNT OF BONDS ISSUED in any fiscal year CANNOT EXCEED 8% of the average of the state's revenues for the preceding two fiscal years.
4. AT LEAST 4% of the total debt MUST BE REPAYED EVERY FISCAL YEAR.

The adoption of the amendment would:

1. PREVENT EXCESSIVE BORROWING, while allowing borrowing without undue delay;
2. EXPAND THE STATE'S ABILITY TO BORROW in times of rising revenues, and to reduce it in times of declining revenues;
3. PREVENT THE CLUTTERING UP OF THE CONSTITUTION with unnecessary financial detail;
4. REDUCE THE NUMBER AND EXPENSE OF STATEWIDE ELECTIONS on matters of debt;
5. UPON APPROVAL OF THE ELECTORATE, permit long-term borrowing outside the debt limit, or for purposes other than capital improvements, or in those emergency situations where such authority presently exists;
6. PROVIDE OHIO WITH A SAVINGS IN INTEREST COSTS by refinancing some of its revenue bonds with general obligation bonds;
7. INCREASE THE FISCAL FLEXIBILITY OF THE STATE by permitting it to borrow to meet appropriations, while requiring that all money borrowed for this purpose is repaid within the fiscal year in which it is borrowed.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Senate Joint Resolution #3 will set a dangerous precedent that could lead Ohio down a road laden with red ink and increased taxes.

The amendment would erase a fixed debt limit that has been part of our Constitution since 1851. It proposes to replace the current limit with a flexible debt that would be allowed to soar, with fluctuating limitations, as lawmakers respond to public pressure for more expensive services. Legislators mindful of public resistance to new taxes have been bound by the restrictive debt limit to the revenue they could raise in a biennial budget period. Senate Joint Resolution #3 eliminates this provision and instead turns legislators loose with our pocketbooks.

Not only will we have the issuance of more bonds for capital improvements around the state, but this proposed amendment allows unlimited short-term borrowing to pay state operating expenses within a fiscal year. Short-term borrowing against current deficits may be a convenient, but certainly a misguided way to forestall increased taxes or reductions in services.

The federal government is in a constant struggle to control an expanding national debt. It has grown to the point where interest payments on the $700 billion debt now account for the third largest expenditure of the federal government after national defense and human resources. The New York City debacle has shown us how fragile a credit rating is when the budget can't be balanced. Ohio is currently fiscally sound and must protect herself from falling into such a trap.

Proponents of the bill say percentage limits will be in effect and Ohio, through this law, will never fall irretrievably into debt. But existing law has an absolute limit that insures the state's fiscal integrity. Current law insures the public that legislators are not granted blank credit cards to incur debts.

ISSUE 4 (Amended Senate Joint Resolution No. 3)

JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing to enact new section 1 of Article VIII, and to repeal sections 1, 2, 2b, 2c, 2d, 2e, 2f, 2g, 2h, 3, 7, 9, and 10 of Article VIII and section 6 of Article XII of the Constitution of the State of Ohio, to replace the fixed state debt limit and authorizations with a flexible debt limit for capital improvement purposes, to empower the General Assembly to create certain additional and limited debt to require the General Assembly to provide methods and procedures for incurring and retiring state debt, and to repeal obsolete and unnecessary sections.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein, that there shall be submitted to the electors of the state in the manner prescribed by law at the general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1977, a proposal to amend the Constitution of the State of Ohio by enacting new section 1 of Article VIII, and repealing sections 1, 2, 2b, 2c, 2d, 2e, 2f, 2g, 2h, 3, 7, 9, and 10 of Article VIII and section 6 of Article XII thereof, as follows:

ARTICLE VIII

Section 1. (A) The state may, by law passed with the concurrence of two-thirds of the members elected to each house of the General Assembly, contract debt for capital improvements, capital acquisitions, land, and interests in the foregoing, and for grants, loans, or contributions to municipal corporations, counties, school districts, or other state or local governmental entities, agencies, or instrumentalities for such purposes, and for refunding debt contracted and other obligations incurred for such purposes. Debt for such purposes shall not be contracted if, in any fiscal year, the amount required for principal and interest payments on such debt and on all outstanding debt previously contracted, less any federal subsidies for any such principal or interest, would exceed six per cent of the average of the annual revenues of the state subject to appropriation by the General Assembly, excluding borrowed moneys, moneys received from the Federal Government, and moneys required to be returned by Section 9 of Article XII of this Constitution, received by the state during the then two preceding fiscal years. New debt for such purposes shall not be contracted in any fiscal year in a total principal amount exceeding eight per cent of such revenue average.

(B) The state may, by law, contract debt to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, or defend the State in war.

(C) The state may, by law, contract debt in addition to that, or for purposes other than those provided for in division (A) or (B) of this section, but only if the General Assembly, three-fifths of the members of each house concurring, submits the question of contracting such debt to the electors, and the question is approved by a majority of those voting on the question. The manner of submitting such questions shall be provided by law.

(D) The state may, by law, contract debt to meet appropriations by the General Assembly made for such fiscal year, but such debt shall be paid not later than the end of such fiscal year and shall be paid from revenues of the state other than borrowed moneys.

(E) Debt contracted pursuant to division (B), (C), or (D) of this section shall not be included in the limits of, nor be subject to the requirements of, division (A) or (G) of this section. Section 11 of Article XII does not apply to debt contracted pursuant to this section.

(F) The General Assembly shall provide by law for the payment of the state debt and for the method and procedure for incurring, evidencing, refunding, and retiring state debt. The General Assembly shall appropriate sufficient moneys as will provide for the full and timely payment of the principal of and interest on the state debt. If the General Assembly does not, at any time, make such appropriations or if moneys to meet appropriations therefor are not provided, the Treasurer of State shall set aside from moneys held to the credit of the General Revenue Fund and from the first revenues of the state applicable to the General Revenue Fund and any other appropriate funds of the state sufficient sums to provide for such full and timely payment and shall so apply the money set aside.

(G) At least four per cent of the total principal amount of debt outstanding at the beginning of a fiscal year shall be paid, or moneys for such payment set aside, during such fiscal year. For the purposes of division (A) of this section, the General Assembly shall provide for computing required principal and interest payments, and may provide for estimating principal and interest payments on bonds while notes in anticipation thereof are outstanding, for including principal and interest payments on debt contracted to refund or retire prior debt in lieu of such payments on such prior debt, and for the method of computing principal and interest payments on any debt required to be retired, or for which sinking fund deposits are required, prior to maturity. The Treasurer of State shall determine and certify the annual principal and interest payments on outstanding debt, the revenues of the state subject to appropriation by the General Assembly, and other financial data necessary for the purposes of division (A) of this section, and such certification shall be conclusive for purposes of the validity of any debt contracted pursuant to such division.

(H) For the purposes of this section, "debt" means general obligations of the state to repay moneys borrowed by the state for which repayment the faith, credit, and taxing power of the state are pledged.

EFFECTIVE DATE AND REPEAL
If adopted by a majority of the electors voting on this amendment, the amendment and schedule shall take immediate effect, and Sections 1, 2, 2b, 2c, 2d, 2e, 2f, 2g, 2h, 3, 7, 9, and 10 of Article VIII, and Section 6 of Article XII shall be repealed from such effective date.

Schedule
From proceeds of bonds or notes authorized pursuant to Division (A) of Section 1 of Article VIII not less than the following amounts shall be appropriated for capital improvements, capital acquisitions, land, and interests in the foregoing, for the following purposes:

- (1) $80 million for state office buildings, including retirement of bonds and notes of the Ohio Building Authority;
- (2) $8 million for energy research or demonstration projects;
- (3) $200 million for transportation, at least one-half of which shall be for roads and bridges maintained by counties, townships and municipalities;

Plan Could Reduce Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's tax revision plan could reduce taxes by up to $22 billion, says Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, and may go into effect in 1978, a year earlier than originally planned.

Blumenthal, emerging from a meeting with Carter and senior economic advisers on Monday, left open the possibility that the administration might try to put the plan into effect next year, depending on the direction the economy follows.

But, walking out of the Cabinet Room meeting that lasted nearly five hours, the treasury secretary insisted no final decisions had been made.

His confirmation that the administration was considering tax cuts that could reach $22 billion was the first on-the-record administration comment on the possible size of the reduction.

The $22 billion figure is "indeed one of the options, but it is not necessarily the number" that will be settled on, he said.

"We just went over the entire program and the President has not made up his mind on any of the options," the treasury secretary said.

Administration sources had said earlier that the tax cut would be in the range of $17 billion to $20 billion, although some reports had placed it as high as $22 billion.

The sources have forecast that one-third of the tax cut would be for businesses and two-thirds for individuals.

The sources have said the tax cut would be introduced in 1979, although it would be phased in over several years. But Blumenthal said the timetable for putting the tax cut into effect remained undecided and that decisions on any tax cut in 1978 would depend on the state of the economy.

He said further meetings were planned and that it was likely Carter would send the plan to Congress by the end of the month.

SHALL THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT BE ADOPTED?

EXPLANATION OF ISSUE NO. 4

Constitutional provisions currently in effect prohibit the state from borrowing more than $750,000. A number of exceptions to this limitation are now in the Constitution.

This proposed Constitutional amendment provides for revised limitations upon state indebtedness. The proposed amendment authorizes the General Assembly by two-thirds concurrence of each house to contract debt for capital improvements by the state or to provide funds to local governmental entities for such purposes, within the limitations that payments on the state's total outstanding debt shall not exceed 6% of the state's annual revenues and debt contracted in any fiscal year shall not exceed 8% of the total revenue that is subject to the General Assembly's appropriations.

The General Assembly is required to provide for the retirement of at least 4% of the state's outstanding indebtedness each year and provide the method, procedures, and appropriations for incurring, evidencing, refunding, and retiring of state debts.

The amendment provides additional authority for general obligation indebtedness for capital improvement or other purposes which may be contracted by a three-fifths majority concurrence of each house of the General Assembly if it is further approved by the voters. Indebtedness incurred in this manner would not be subject to limitations as to size or purpose or be included in the requirement to retire at least 4% of the principal debt each fiscal year.

The amendment provides that the state may contract debt during any fiscal year to meet appropriations of the General Assembly for such fiscal year, if such debt is repaid prior to the end of the fiscal year from state revenues other than borrowed funds.

If the General Assembly should fail to provide the required appropriations the Treasurer of State shall set aside moneys from the General Revenue Fund to provide for the full and timely payment of principal and interest on all state debts.

The Treasurer of State would be required to determine and certify the annual principal and interest payments on outstanding debts, the annual revenues that serve as the basis for determining the debt limitations, and any other financial data necessary for determining the limitations on borrowing authority or the amounts of principal to be retired. The Treasurer's determination would be conclusive for the purposes of this amendment.

The amendment would establish the minimum amounts which shall be appropriated for various purposes from the proceeds of bonds or notes authorized under the capital improvement provisions of this amendment as follows:

- (1) $80 million for state office buildings, including retirement of bonds and notes of the Ohio Building Authority;
- (2) $8 million for energy research or demonstration projects;
- (3) $200 million for transportation, at least one-half of which shall be for roads and bridges maintained by counties, townships, and municipalities;
- (4) $64 million for mental health and retardation facilities;
- (5) $80 million for correctional institutions;
- (6) $80 million for parks and recreation;
- (7) $35 million for water development;
- (8) $43 million for higher education;
- (9) $30 million for elementary and secondary education school building modernization or replacement;
- (10) $20 million for the multi-purpose senior citizens' center.

An amount not exceeding 15% of the total amounts enumerated above may be expended for any one of the above enumerated purposes or for any other purpose without all of the required appropriations for capital improvements having been made.

The amendment provides for the repeal of the following present Constitutional provisions:

Article VIII, Section 1—Imposing a $750,000 limitation upon state indebtedness.

Article VIII, Section 2—The authority for the state to borrow for the suppression of insurrection or to defend the state in wartime is transferred from Section 2 to Section 1, and Section 2 is repealed. The indebtedness incurred for these purposes is not made subject to the revenue-linked limitations or the 4% retirement limitation.

Other sections of Article VIII which provide for the World War II Compensation Fund, debt and bond-issuing authority for highway purposes, the Korean War bonus, state capital improvements, public works, and the issuance of development bonds are repealed. Sections of Article VIII which prohibit debt except as authorized by Sections 1 and 2 of Article VIII, require creation of a Sinking Fund for debt retirement, require a biennial report of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, and specify the duties of the Commissioners to repay debt are also repealed. Section 6 of Article XII, which prohibits the state from contracting for internal improvements except as otherwise provided in the Constitution, is repealed.

ARGUMENTS FOR THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

This Constitutional Amendment would REPEAL THE $750,000 DEBT LIMIT ESTABLISHED IN 1851 and replace it with a flexible debt tied directly to the state's revenues.

The bi-partisan Ohio Constitutional Revision Commission recommended this Amendment, indicating that a "flexible debt limit," responsive to the state's ability to repay, is the best solution for modernizing the mechanism by which Ohio incurs debt for capital improvement purposes.

Recognizing the preference of the people of Ohio for Constitutional control in fiscal matters, this amendment contains the following restrictions:

1. Issuance of bonds WOULD REQUIRE A TWO-THIRDS VOTE OF BOTH HOUSES of the Legislature.
2. PRINCIPLE AND INTEREST OWED on bonds to be issued and on all outstanding bonds CANNOT IN ANY ONE YEAR EXCEED 6% of the average of the state's revenues for the preceding two years.
3. The DOLLAR AMOUNT OF BONDS ISSUED in any fiscal year CANNOT EXCEED 8% of the average of the state's revenues for the preceding two fiscal years.
4. AT LEAST 4% of the total debt MUST BE REPAID EVERY FISCAL YEAR.

The adoption of the amendment would:

1. PREVENT EXCESSIVE BORROWING, while allowing borrowing without undue delay;
2. EXPAND THE STATE'S ABILITY TO BORROW in times of rising revenues, and to reduce it in times of declining revenues;
3. PREVENT THE CLUTTERING UP OF THE CONSTITUTION with unnecessary financial detail;
4. REDUCE THE NUMBER AND EXPENSE OF STATEWIDE ELECTIONS on matters of debt;
5. UPON APPROVAL OF THE ELECTORATE, permit long-term borrowing outside the debt limit, or for purposes other than capital improvements, or in those emergency situations where such authority presently exists;
6. PROVIDE OHIO WITH A SAVINGS IN INTEREST COSTS by refinancing some of its revenue bonds with general obligation bonds;
7. INCREASE THE FISCAL FLEXIBILITY OF THE STATE by permitting it to borrow to meet appropriations, while requiring that all money borrowed for this purpose is repaid within the fiscal year in which it is borrowed.

(Amended Senate Joint Resolution No. 3)

JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing to enact new section 1 of Article VIII, and to repeal sections 1, 2, 2b, 2c, 2d, 2e, 2f, 2g, 2h, 3, 7, 9, and 10 of Article VIII and section 6 of Article XII of the Constitution of the State of Ohio, to replace the fixed debt limit and authorizations with a flexible debt limit for capital improvement purposes, to empower the General Assembly to create certain additional and limited debt to require the General Assembly to provide methods and procedures for incurring and retiring state debt, and to repeal obsolete and unnecessary sections.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein, that there shall be submitted to the electors of the state in the manner prescribed by law at the general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1977, a proposal to amend the Constitution of the State of Ohio by enacting new section 1 of Article VIII, and repealing sections 1, 2, 2b, 2c, 2d, 2e, 2f, 2g, 2h, 3, 7, 9, and 10 of Article VIII and section 6 of Article XII thereof, as follows:

ARTICLE VIII

Section 1. (A) The state may, by law, pass with the concurrence of two-thirds of the members elected to each house of the General Assembly, contract debt for capital improvements, capital acquisitions, land, and interests in the foregoing, and for grants, loans, or contributions to municipal corporations, counties, school districts, or other state or local governmental entities, agencies, or instrumentalities for such purposes, and for refunding debt contracted and other obligations incurred for such purposes. Debt for such purposes shall not be contracted if, in any fiscal year, the amount required for principal and interest payments on such debt and on all outstanding debt previously contracted, less any federal subsidies for any such principal or interest, would exceed six per cent of the average of the annual revenues of the state subject to appropriation by the General Assembly, excluding borrowed moneys, moneys received from the Federal Government, and moneys required to be returned by Section 9 of Article XII of this Constitution, received by the state during the then two preceding fiscal years. New debt for such purposes shall not be contracted if, in any fiscal year, the amount required for principal and interest payments on such debt and on all outstanding debt previously contracted, less any federal subsidies for any such principal or interest, would exceed six per cent of the average of the annual revenues of the state subject to appropriation by the General Assembly, excluding borrowed moneys, moneys received from the Federal Government, and moneys required to be returned by Section 9 of Article XII of this Constitution, received by the state during the then two preceding fiscal years. New debt for such purposes shall not be contracted if, in any fiscal year, the amount required for principal and interest payments on such debt and on all outstanding debt previously contracted, less any federal subsidies for any such principal or interest, would exceed six per cent of the average of the annual revenues of the state subject to appropriation by the General Assembly, excluding borrowed moneys, moneys received from the Federal Government, and moneys required to be returned by Section 9 of Article XII of this Constitution, received by the state during the then two preceding fiscal years.

(B) The state may, by law, contract debt to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, or defend the State in war.

(C) The state may, by law, contract debt in addition to that, or for purposes other than those provided for in division (A) or (B) of this section, but only if the General Assembly, three-fifths of the members of each house concurring, submit the question of contracting such debt to the electors, and the question is approved by a majority of those voting on the question. The question, admitting such questions shall be provided by law.

(D) The state may, by law, contract debt during any fiscal year to meet appropriations by the General Assembly made for such fiscal year, but such debt shall be repaid not later than the end of such fiscal year and shall be paid from revenues of the state other than borrowed moneys.

(E) Debt contracted pursuant to division (B), (C), or (D) of this section shall not be included in the limits of, nor be subject to the requirements of, division (A) or (G) of this section. Section 11 of Article XII does not apply to debt contracted pursuant to this section.

(F) The General Assembly shall provide by law for the payment of the state debt and for the method and procedure for incurring, evidencing, refunding, and retiring state debt. The General Assembly shall appropriate sufficient moneys as will provide for the full and timely payment of the principal of and interest on the state debt. If the General Assembly does not, at any time, make such appropriations or if moneys to meet appropriations therefor are not provided, the Treasurer of State shall set aside from moneys held to the credit of the General Revenue Fund and from the first revenues of the state applicable to the General Revenue Fund and any other appropriate funds of the state sufficient moneys to provide for such full and timely payment and shall so apply the money set aside.

(G) At least four per cent of the total principal amount of debt outstanding at the beginning of a fiscal year shall be paid, or moneys for such payment set aside, during such fiscal year. For the purposes of division (A) of this section, the General Assembly shall provide for computing principal and interest payments on bonds while notes in anticipation thereof are outstanding, for including principal and interest payments on debt contracted to refund or retire prior debt in lieu of such payments on such prior debt, and for the method of computing principal and interest payments on any debt required to be retired, or for which sinking fund deposits are required, prior to maturity. The Treasurer of State shall determine and certify the annual principal and interest payments on outstanding debt, the revenues of the state subject to appropriation by the General Assembly, and other financial data necessary for the purposes of division (A) of this section, and such certification shall be conclusive for purposes of the validity of any debt contracted pursuant to such division.

(H) For the purposes of this section, "debt" means general obligations of the state to repay moneys borrowed by the state for which repayment the faith, credit, and taxing power of the state are pledged.

EFFECTIVE DATE AND REPEAL
If adopted by a majority of the electors voting on this amendment, the amendment and schedule shall take immediate effect, and Sections 1, 2, 2b, 2c, 2d, 2e, 2f, 2g, 2h, 3, 7, 9, and 10 of Article VIII and Section 6 of Article XII shall be repealed from such effective date.

Schedule
From proceeds of bonds or notes authorized pursuant to Division (A) of Section 1 of Article VIII not less than the following amounts shall be appropriated for capital improvements, capital acquisitions, land, and interests in the foregoing, for the following purposes:

- (1) $80 million for state office buildings, including retirement of bonds and notes of the Ohio Building Authority;
- (2) $8 million for energy research or demonstration projects;
- (3) $200 million for transportation, at least one-half of which shall be for roads and bridges maintained by counties, townships, and municipalities;

Plan Could Reduce Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's tax revision plan could reduce taxes by up to $22 billion, says Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, and may go into effect in 1978, a year earlier than originally planned.

Blumenthal, emerging from a meeting with Carter and senior economic advisers on Monday, left open the possibility that the administration might try to put the plan into effect next year, depending on the direction the economy follows.

But, walking out of the Cabinet Room meeting that lasted nearly five hours, the treasury secretary insisted no final decisions had been made.

His confirmation that the administration was considering tax cuts that could reach $22 billion was the first on-the-record administration comment on the possible size of the reduction.

The $22 billion figure is "indeed one of the options, but it is not necessarily the number" that will be settled on, he said.

"We just went over the entire program and the President has not made up his mind on any of the options," the treasury secretary said.

Administration sources had said earlier that the tax cut would be in the range of $17 billion to $20 billion, although some reports had placed it as high as $22 billion.

The sources have forecast that one-third of the tax cut would be for businesses and two-thirds for individuals.

The sources have said the tax cut would be introduced in 1979, although it would be phased in over several years. But Blumenthal said the timetable for putting the tax cut into effect remained undecided and that decisions on any tax cut in 1978 would depend on the state of the economy.

He said further meetings were planned and that it was likely Carter would send the plan to Congress by the end of the month.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Back in 1938, a young Mexican-born artist, Bill Melendez, knocked on the door of the Walt Disney studios in Burbank, inquiring about a job.

He got one, as assistant animator of the classic "Fantasia."

Now, he's celebrating his 14th year as animator-producer of another kind of classic — Charles M. Schulz' "Peanuts" specials, in which he doubles as the voice of the noted doghouse ace, "Snoopy."

His latest effort, "It's Your First Kiss, Charlie Brown," airs on CBS Oct. 24. It's the 17th half-hour "Peanuts" special he's made.

Melendez, 60, a tall, friendly man with graying crew-cut hair and a waxed mustache, was beginning work on another special, "Bon Voyage, Charlie Brown," when he paused for a quick chat last week. Among other things, he was asked if drawing thousands of cartoons, shifting a figure's movements ever so slightly thousands of times to make a show, doesn't get a mite repetitive at times.

"Not really," shrugged the man who estimates he did 15 to 20 sketches a day, six days a week, for more than a year on "Fantasia."

"Animation is a series of drawings illustrating an action. So the characters are always moving, there's always a different position for the head, arms, body, whatever. So the drawings aren't identical."

Be that as it may, how long does it usually take to put together a "Peanuts" special that runs about 25 minutes without commercials?

"Oh, about six months from the time I start with Sparky (Schulz) on the story board," he replied off-handedly. "We work very closely at this time in San Francisco (Schulz' home base).

"We talk and I take notes. Then I come back here and draw some more. It usually takes about two months to do the story itself, then four months to animate it."

Bill, who works with a seven-member team of animators at the two-bungalow studio he opened here in 1964, was sympathetic to the lot of those who turn out Saturday morning cartoon shows for TV every week.

He conceded such shows are criticized for their lack of detail, their almost stick-like sketches, "but there's no other way you can do it. They have a problem of budget and time ... it's impossible. 'The budget is so low they can't use many drawings. The more drawings you use, the more expensive the show is.'"

Melendez knows whereof he speaks, having worked not only at Disney, but also at Warner Bros., at UPA, which made the legendary "Gerald McBoingBoing" cartoons, and on more than 1,000 TV commercials.

Despite nearly 40 years in the business, he still speaks of his labors as fun, particularly his first big-time work at the Disney studios.

"Oh, yes, that was a great place," he said, his eyes twinkling. "I think those were the happiest days of my life, because he (the late Walt Disney) was such an eye-opener."

"And there was such enthusiasm, vitality and talent all around me. It was a crazy studio — crazy in the sense of great stimulation and a lot of fun."

With oil reserves at 30.8 billion barrels and gas reserves at 216 trillion cubic feet, the United States has about 10 years of oil and gas supplies remaining, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR THURSDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Flexibility MUST be day's keynote. An unpredictable period in which you'll HAVE to shelve some of your pet plans and projects.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A good period for branching out into new fields, if your regular activities allow you the time. Creative interests especially favored.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Keep emotions under stern control. You could make an impulsive — and unwise — decision if your temper is aroused.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A new work assignment may seem difficult to carry out, but a comprehensive discussion with close associates will produce useful ideas, guidance.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Bonuses indicated from past efforts. These should give you new incentive, perhaps a wholly new approach in certain problematic areas. Long-range plans favored.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Day offers new incentive for forging ahead. You'll have at least one opportunity.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Stars presently warn against driving yourself too hard, with resultant strain and anxiety. Eliminate nonessentials from your program in order to pace yourself at an easier gait.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): A good day for business and financial matters. A mid-morning meeting could produce some especially useful information.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Note Libra. Your outlook similar. Someone of influence would pull some strings for you if approached in the early afternoon.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Even though your day may be crowded, Don't overlook details through haste. Seemingly minor factors could be most important to the overall picture of a successful day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Everyday matters will probably run their usual course, but evening brings a surprise invitation from some highly amusing companions.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Others often accuse you of being overly emotional, of "thinking with your heart," but your "feelings" about a certain situation will be right on target.

Fake Art

DETROIT (AP) — "Fake" may be a bad word to art museums and collectors, but it's going to put money in the till of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Capitalizing on the public's interest in spurious art, the Institute is planning a display of famous fakes as a fund-raising promotion. The Institute of Arts, which houses some of the finest examples of genuine art in the nation, will stage a one-night display Nov. 3 of fabulous phonies, with tickets for $12.50 and $25 entitling patrons to see Orson Wells' "F-For Fake," a movie about art forgery.

There are many types of writing besides the modern alphabet system. They include picture words, symbols, ideographs, hieroglyphs and hieratic symbols.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Back in 1938, a young Mexican-born artist, Bill Melendez, knocked on the door of the Walt Disney studios in Burbank, inquiring about a job.

He got one, as assistant animator of the classic "Fantasia."

Now, he's celebrating his 14th year as animator-producer of another kind of classic — Charles M. Schulz' "Peanuts" specials, in which he doubles as the voice of the noted doghouse ace, "Snoopy."

His latest effort, "It's Your First Kiss, Charlie Brown," airs on CBS Oct. 24. It's the 17th half-hour "Peanuts" special he's made.

Melendez, 60, a tall, friendly man with graying crew-cut hair and a waxed mustache, was beginning work on another special, "Bon Voyage, Charlie Brown," when he paused for a quick chat last week. Among other things, he was asked if drawing thousands of cartoons, shifting a figure's movements ever so slightly thousands of times to make a show, doesn't get a mite repetitive at times.

"Not really," shrugged the man who estimates he did 15 to 20 sketches a day, six days a week, for more than a year on "Fantasia."

"Animation is a series of drawings illustrating an action. So the characters are always moving, there's always a different position for the head, arms, body, whatever. So the drawings aren't identical."

Be that as it may, how long does it usually take to put together a "Peanuts" special that runs about 25 minutes without commercials?

"Oh, about six months from the time I start with Sparky (Schulz) on the story board," he replied off-handedly. "We work very closely at this time in San Francisco (Schulz' home base).

"We talk and I take notes. Then I come back here and draw some more. It usually takes about two months to do the story itself, then four months to animate it."

Bill, who works with a seven-member team of animators at the two-bungalow studio he opened here in 1964, was sympathetic to the lot of those who turn out Saturday morning cartoon shows for TV every week.

He conceded such shows are criticized for their lack of detail, their almost stick-like sketches, "but there's no other way you can do it. They have a problem of budget and time ... it's impossible."

"The budget is so low they can't use many drawings. The more drawings you use, the more expensive the show is."

Melendez knows whereof he speaks, having worked not only at Disney, but also at Warner Bros., at UPA, which made the legendary "Gerald McBoingBoing" cartoons, and on more than 1,000 TV commercials.

Despite nearly 40 years in the business, he still speaks of his labors as fun, particularly his first big-time work at the Disney studios.

"Oh, yes, that was a great place," he said, his eyes twinkling. "I think those were the happiest days of my life, because he (the late Walt Disney) was such an eye-opener."

"And there was such enthusiasm, vitality and talent all around me. It was a crazy studio — crazy in the sense of great stimulation and a lot of fun."

French colonist La Moite Cadillac founded Detroit in 1701.

With oil reserves at 30.8 billion barrels and gas reserves at 216 trillion cubic feet, the United States has about 10 years of oil and gas supplies remaining, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

Your Horoscope

by FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR THURSDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Flexibility MUST be day's keynote. An unpredictable period in which you'll HAVE to shelve some of your pet plans and projects.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A good period for branching out into new fields, if your regular activities allow you the time. Creative interests especially favored.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Keep emotions under stern control. You could make an impulsive — and unwise — decision if your temper is aroused.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A new work assignment may seem difficult to carry out, but a comprehensive discussion with close associates will produce useful ideas, guidance.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Bonuses indicated from past efforts. These should give you new incentive, perhaps a wholly new approach in certain problematic areas. Long-range plans favored.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Day offers new incentive for forging ahead. You'll have at least one opportunity.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Stars presently warn against driving yourself too hard, with resultant strain and anxiety. Eliminate nonessentials from your program in order to pace yourself at an easier gait.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Day offers new incentive for forging ahead. You'll have at least one opportunity to cash in through the influence of an old business contact.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): A good day for business and financial matters. A mid-morning meeting could produce some especially useful information.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Note Libra. Your outlook similar. Someone of influence would pull some strings for you if approached in the early afternoon.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Even though your day may be crowded, Don't overlook details through haste. Seemingly minor factors could be most important to the overall picture of a successful day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Everyday matters will probably run their usual course, but evening brings a surprise invitation from some highly amusing companions.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Others often accuse you of being overly emotional, of "thinking with your heart," but your "feelings" about a certain situation will be right on target.

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly energetic individual, remarkably intuitive and imaginative; kind, generous and endowed with a keen sense of justice. You will not tolerate inhumanity or imbalance where you can do something about it, and, being extremely foresighted, find many opportunities for doing things worthwhile. Fields in which you could excel: the law, medicine, painting, sculpture, community work, music and the theater. Birthdate of: Cornel Wilde, film star.

Fake Art

DETROIT (AP) — "Fake" may be a bad word to art museums and collectors, but it's going to put money in the till of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Capitalizing on the public's interest in spurious art, the Institute is planning a display of famous fakes as a fund-raising promotion. The Institute of Arts, which houses some of the finest examples of genuine art in the nation, will stage a one-night display Nov. 3 of fabulous phonies, with tickets for $12.50 and $25 entitling patrons to see Orson Wells' "F-For Fake," a movie about art forgery.

There are many types of writing besides the modern alphabet system. They include picture words, symbols, ideographs, hieroglyphs and hieratic symbols.

Ulysses S. Grant, Rutherford B. Hayes and James A. Garfield, the 18th, 19th, and 20th presidents of the United States, were all Ohio-born Republicans who were once generals in the Union Army.

Apple Appeal

NEW YORK (AP) - For Centuries apples have been associated with Halloween celebrations.

"Maybe it's because apples ripen at Halloween time, and were sacred to the early Druids," says Hallmark researcher Sally Hopkins. "They also figured in the Roman equivalent of Halloween, a festival honoring Pomona, the goddess of fruits."

The Halloween game of bobbing for apples or biting at apples suspended by a string originated generations ago in Ireland, Scotland and parts of England, according to Miss Hopkins. Sometimes a riskier variation was played by fixing an apple and a lighted candle at opposite ends of a suspended stick. The stick was rotated and the object was to bite the apple without getting burned by the candle.

Top Book

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) - "Alligator Pie," a collection of nonsense poems by Dennis Lee, illustrated by Frank Newfield, was recently named the "Top English-Canadian Children's Book of All Times" in a poll of Canadian children's librarians.

"Anne of Green Gables" by Lucy Maud Montgomery and "Mary of Mile 18" by Ann Blades finished second and third.

The poll was conducted by "The World of Children's Books," a review of children's literature published here.

Recent estimates place the age of the earth at some four-and-a-half billion years.

The world's only poisonous lizards are North American and include the Gila monster in the United States and the beaded lizard, from Mexico.

The Circus Maximus, ancient Rome's principal place of amusement, was built around 600 B.C. Its outer dimensions were 2,000 by 625 feet, with an arena about 1,850 feet long and 280 feet wide. The seating capacity was about 200,000.

Ohio Waterfowl Hunting To Be New Experience

By JIM DAUBEL
For The Associated Press

Waterfowl hunting, Buckeye style, will mean new experiences for Ohio shooters this year.

Changes in federal and state regulations will bring some pain and much promise to the waterfowling scene which opens Oct. 13 in the state's north zone.

A good deal of negative reaction has greeted the new federal regulation mandating steel shot in 12-gauge shotguns used in waterfowl hunting throughout Erie, Ottawa and Lucas counties.

On the brighter side, hunters should experience better shooting as a result of seasons now based on geographic zones instead of calendar segments.

In years past, Ohio's waterfowl season was divided into two segments by calendar dates. It usually ran from October through November then closed and reopened for a week in late December or early January.

The idea was to provide hunting opportunities in all of Ohio at times when duck populations normally peak in each zone.

This year the split season has been abandoned in favor of zoned hunting. The dividing line is Interstate 70 at Columbus. The season in the north zone runs from Oct. 13 through Nov. 26 and in the south from Nov. 17 through Dec. 31.

How successful the zoning will depend largely on the weather. Early comments from hunters in the northern area, where most of the state's waterfowling is done, have been favorable.

The three counties on which the lead shot ban has been imposed are the leading duck hunting counties in Ohio. Sandusky County originally was included in the ban but later was excluded on the recommendation of Ohio wildlife officials.

The change from lead to steel shot pellets in shotgun shells stemmed from research showing that an estimated 1.6 to 2.4 million ducks die each year from lead poisoning nationwide.

Dabbling ducks such as mallards, pintails, teal and black ducks ingest spent shot along with grit and gravel as they sluice the marsh bottoms in search of food.

The pellets lodge in their gizzards and cause lead poisoning which cripples and ultimately kills the birds.

The steel shot requirement, being implemented in stages in flyways across the country, has triggered a lively debate among biologists, ammunition manufacturers, hunters and government agencies.

Only hunters who use 12 gauge guns will be affected this year, as steel shot shells are not yet available in other gauges.

Ammo manufacturers say steel shot does not pack the lethal punch at longer distances that lead does. They predict an increase in cripples among birds hit beyond 40 yards.

Steel shot, which is harder than lead, also will enlarge some shotgun choke constrictions by several thousandths of an inch under heavy use, ammunition companies say. For this reason the use of steel shot in thinner or softer steel barrels such as those on double or over-and-under shotguns is discouraged.

Can Trail Blazers Do It Again?

By ALEX SACHARE

AP Sports Writer

Can the Portland Trail Blazers do it again? Can they become the first team in nine years to repeat as National Basketball Association champions?

"The hardest thing to do, in any professional sport, is winning a championship two years in a row," said Portland Coach Jack Ramsay, who guided the Blazers to the top of the heap in his first season with Portland. "The motivational factors are different. There is a tendency to be less hungry."

"And we are no longer a team that people will take lightly. Everyone else is gunning for you. Wherever you go, the other team wants to knock off the champion."

Portland rose to the top with a blend of talent and teamwork, fine coaching and enthusiastic local support that will not be easy to duplicate. As Ramsay says, it's always harder the second time. The last team to win two in a row was Boston in 1968 and 1969.

In fact, the Blazers will have their hands full within their own Pacific Division. Los Angeles, which beat the Blazers for the division title during the regular season a year ago, has assembled a much stronger supporting cast for super-center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the league's Most Valuable Player. Phoenix also is much improved, while Golden State and Seattle are rebuilding.

The Midwest Division also appears to be strengthened. Chicago was the hottest team in the league the second half of last season. Denver has moved to build its backcourt. Detroit remains loaded with talent and Milwaukee is coming off one of the finest college drafts in history. Kansas City and Indiana don't figure to compete for the title, but at least both made some moves in the off-season.

Pacific Division
Portland's future depends on the

Borbon Maintains Innocence

CINCINNATI (AP) - Pedro Borbon, the Cincinnati Reds ace relief pitcher, maintaining his innocence despite reduced assault charges, has asked for a jury trial.

Borbon was named in two private warrants in connection with an incident at a downtown discotheque Oct. 3.

Ann Tracey, assistant Cincinnati prosecutor, said Tuesday a felony assault count filed against Borbon by another man was "the wrong charge."

Mrs. Tracey told Municipal Court Judge William C. McClain that a deadly weapon was required for a felony. She said she did not consider a chair to be a deadly weapon.

Judge McClain reduced the charge to simple assault, a misdemeanor. Borbon is charged on a second misdemeanor assault charge also.

"I am not guilty," Borbon said at the preliminary hearing. The case was set for pretrial conference before Municipal Court Judge Norbert Nadel

3-Year-Old Political Dispute Flares Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A three-year-old political dispute over which arm of state government should have responsibility for consumer protection has flared up again.

The state Controlling Board released $181,939 Tuesday to help Atty. Gen. William J. Brown operate an expanded consumer protection division.

The request, approved 4-3 along partisan lines, rekindled the "semi-political question of who does what in consumer protection," as Rep. Waldo Bennet Rose, R-64 Lima, put it.

After failing during the 1975 "six day war," Majority Democrats succeeded last July in transferring consumer protection from the Rhodes Administration commerce department to the attorney general's consumer frauds and crimes section. But no money was appropriated for the expanded operation in Democrat Brown's office.

Rose and two other Republicans on the seven-member board argued that the money should have been provided when the politically motivated switch was made. They managed to win an amendment cutting a nearly $400 million, two-year request to the lower figure.

Earlier in a bipartisan move, the board approved spending by the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation of an additional $5 million in federal Medicaid money. That cleared the way for hiring 1,235 new employees at state mental retardation facilities.

Consequently, Ohio institutions for the mentally retarded should be able to meet minimum national standards for staff levels by mid-1978, a spokesman for department said.

The federal money for the fiscal year ending next July 1 became available as the result of legislation enacted last month changing the way the state bills Medicaid providers at institutions. The new formula bases state payment on current, actual cost, rather than estimates assumed from past expenses.

Dr. Timothy Moritz, director of the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, said last week that with the new money the state could reach "minimum standards" of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals by next June.

The bulk of the new spending authority, $3 million, will be used to place new employees at all levels at four facilities for the mentally retarded; Orient State Institute; Gallipolis State Institute; Mount Vernon and Columbus State Institute.

An additional $2 million will be used to maintain current staff at extended care facilities for the mentally ill at the following locations: Athens, Tiffin, Longview (Cincinnati), Massillon; Cambridge, Toledo and the Central Ohio Psychiatric facility.

Orient, the state's largest hospital for mentally retarded patients, was more than 400 employees below minimum standards when Moritz and other officials toured it last week.

In other action, the board:

—Approved a $100,000 program to continue an educational television show for elderly Ohioans called "Prime Times." The federal government will pay 90 per cent of the bill.

—Released $75,000 for repair work on a crumbling terrace between the Statehouse and the Statehouse Annex.

—Approved diversion of $187,829 originally targeted for the Tri-County Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation to the Youngstown Hospital Association, Psychiatric Inpatient Facility. The increase in state aid was to help defray the cost of additional square footage and new elevators.

—Approved the purchase, without competitive bidding of three station wagons costing $5,709 each for the state fire marshal's office.
